GAS RATES ARE CUT TO 97 CENTS

Reduction for Oakland and Other Alameda County Cities Ordered by Reason of Decline in Fuel Oil

Companies Told by Railway Commission Necessity of Lower Price Than $1.02 Per Thousand as at Present

Gas rates for Oakland and other Alameda county cities and towns were today reduced to 97 cents 1000 feet by the State Railroad Commission.

The declining price of fuel oil was given by the commission as the reason for the reduction.

This is the first time since the war that the price of gas in the Eastbay cities has dropped below the dollar point. It was pointed out by members of the Railroad Commission. The rate which is to be superseded by that announced today was $1.02, 1000 feet.

The cities affected by the new rate include Oakland, Alameda, Berkeley and virtually all other places in Alameda county.

Other reductions were made covering practically the whole of Northern California. Among the gas companies principally affected are the Pacific Gas and Electric Company and the Coast Counties Gas Company, which supplies Watsonville and vicinity.

Fruit Men Protest S. P. C. P. Merger

The California Fruit Exchange, composed of leading shippers of deciduous fruits, has adopted resolutions strongly protesting against the unmerger of the Southern Pacific-Central Pacific system, according to letter received today by Wallace M. Alexander, chairman of the state-wide committee against dismemberment.

In the letter, enclosing the resolutions, J. L. Nye, general manager of the California Fruit Exchange, states that his organization proposes to present certain facts before the hearing by the Interstate Commerce Commission proving that if the present relationship between the two railroads is severed, the deciduous fruit industry will suffer a serious loss.

Garment Workers in N. Y. Declare Strike

NEW YORK, July 22.—The International Garment Workers' Union has ordered its 50,000 members to suspend work for a week beginning next Tuesday. Nearly 3000 plants will be affected by the order, which was issued to compel small contractors to recognize the union. Employers of about 600 large factories already working under union rules say they have agreed to the suspension in the hope that it will force small shops to adopt standardized production methods.

University Offers Community Course

SAN LEANDRO, July 22.—Additional request has been received at the Chamber of Commerce of San Leandro that members seriously consider enrollment in the second annual summer school of community leadership, to be held at Stanford University September 18 to 23. Enrollment blanks were enclosed. The matter will be placed before the attention of all of the organization's members at the next meeting.

Farmer Dies While Driving Hay Motor

REDDING, July 22.—As E. B. North motored through Siskiyou county, east of Hornbrook, he noticed a team attached to a motor stopped in a hay field and the driver leaning forward in his seat as though asleep. North investigated and found the driver dead. He was Jefferson Greive, 72, a farmer in Siskiyou county for fifty years. He had been apparently been stricken with heart failure as he worked.

Policeman Wounded In Fighting Bandits

ST. LOUIS, July 22.—Two men arrested here today are held for possible connection with the killing of Deputy Sheriff Patrick J. Nally, 50, and seriously wounding of Patrolman Ross Johnson, 45, in a gun battle at Granite City, Ill., early this morning. Witnesses of the shooting have been called to identify them.

Nippon Prince's Driver Suicide As Tire Bursts

TOKYO, July 22.—Because of a tire puncture while his royal master was riding in his machine, the chauffeur to Prince Hirohito, regent of Japan, committed hari-kiri today.

Hari-kiri is a method of suicide known in Japan as "happy death" permitted as a means of escaping execution or official disgrace. Any happening which in any way inconveniences any member of the imperial family is taken as a personal responsibility by whoever is in control of that portion of the royal entourage in which it occurs.

DR. NUSBAUMER INJURED IN CRASH

Head of Laboratories and Former City Bacteriologist Hurt in Auto Collision.

Dr. Pauline S. Nusbaumer, head of the Western Laboratories, former city bacteriologist and one of the best known physicians in the city, is recovering today from injuries received last night in an automobile and train accident at Thirteenth and Webster streets.

Accompanied by her niece, Mrs. H. M. Lawrence, who was driving the car, Dr. Nusbaumer's machine crashed into a Southern Pacific electric train in charge of Conductor E. A. Levy and Motorman L. T. Wallace. The automobile was badly damaged.

Dr. Nusbaumer and her niece were removed to the Menlo hotel where they were treated for cuts and bruises by Dr. D. D. Weaver and later taken to their home at 7 Estrella avenue in Piedmont. Dr. Nusbaumer is the secretary of the Alameda County Medical association.

Banker on Train Saved by Chance

Cashier Slips, Falls From Car Just as Brakes Halt Speed; Found in Time.

A freak chance in all probability saved the life of Walter P. Tatge, cashier of the National City Bank of Chicago, when he accidentally fell from a moving train near Dundas today. Tatge was one of the delegates to the convocation of the American Institute of Banking recently held at Portland.

Tatge lost his footing and fell from the steps of one of the cars while the train was moving at a high rate of speed. At the same instant something went wrong with the emergency brake and it automatically brought the train to a stop almost within its own length.

The brakemen descending from the train to investigate the trouble stepped upon Tatge's unconscious form, which lay just outside the track.

Tatge was picked up and brought to Oakland, where he was taken to Providence hospital. He partly recovered consciousness but was still in a dazed condition.

It was stated at the hospital that Tatge's injuries were probably not of a fatal nature. He struck his head in the fall and is suffering from concussion of the brain and possible fracture of the skull.

Auto Driver Sought In Boulevard Blow

A search for the driver of an automobile which ran over James T. Cummings as he was repairing his machine is being made today under the direction of Captain of Inspectors Walter J. Petersen.

The accident occurred last night on the Potomac boulevard near Twenty-sixth avenue. Cummings' machine had stalled and he was about to crawl underneath it when he was struck by the passing machine. He was picked up unconscious and taken to the emergency hospital. He was treated for cuts and bruises and later removed to his home at 5307 East Fourteenth street.

EIGHT SLAIN, 40 HURT BY TRAIN CRASH

Score Fatally Injured Near Springfield, Mo., When Express Flyer Crashes Into Passenger Awaiting Orders

Whole Family Victims of Collision; Accident Comes at 45-Mile-An-Hour Speed; Open Switch Held Cause

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., July 22 (By International News Service).—Eight persons were killed early today when the Meteor Express No. 9 of the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad ran into an open switch at Logan and crashed head-on into the combined "Katy" and Frisco special No. 2, which was standing on a siding.

Over forty were injured, several probably fatally. The dead are Engineer H. R. Rine and Fireman Nealy of the Meteor and a man, wife and four children, all of one family.

The Meteor, southbound from St. Louis, was running about 45 miles an hour when it struck the open switch and was behind schedule time. Both locomotives were demolished in the crash and the track strewn with wreckage.

Most of the injured passengers were occupants of two chair cars on train No. 2, St. Louis to Oklahoma City, which were telescoped.

Members of the family which was killed were seated in the front seats of the second chair car. It was hours before rescuers could make their way into the mass of steel wreckage of the two chair cars and get at the bodies of the family who had been in the front seats of the second car.

They were identified as Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hammer of Stoutland, Mo., and children and Bernice West, aged 12 and 10, sisters of Mrs. Hammer. Marjorie, the little baby of Mrs. Hammer, was found in her mother's lifeless arms, still alive, but dying. Her 12-year-old son, Benny Hammer, was also not expected to live. Benny West, Mrs. Hammer's brother, was badly hurt, but may live.

Mail and baggage cars of the Meteor were wrecked and it was believed the clerks in both cars had received fatal injuries. They were rushed to the city hospital along with the other injured.

Logan is a small town 25 miles south of this city in the Ozarks.

McCormick in Paris, Denies Love Errand

PARIS, July 22.—Harold F. McCormick, on his arrival here today from New York, told the Associated Press he was in Europe for business and a rest and that he had no intention of seeing Mrs. Alexander Smith Cochran (Mrs. Ganna Walska), whose engagement to the American harvester magnate has been persistently reported and denied.

McCormick said he had received no news of Mrs. Walska and that he did not know whether he would go to Switzerland while in Europe. Reports were published recently that McCormick and the singer expected to meet at Carlsbad in August.

Mrs. Walska's preliminary decree of divorce from Cochran is expected to become final August 19, as the sixty day interval provided in the provisional decree granted by a French court will expire on that date.

Electricity Kills Couple in Germany

FRANKFURT, Germany, July 22.—Electricity snuffed out the lives of a young married couple yesterday in an unusual accident. Both bodies were found in a bath room and investigation revealed that the zinc bathtub, a water pipe and a portable metal lamp stand figured in completing the fatal electrical circuit.

The wife had grasped the lamp, which was of defective construction, with her wet hands as she was about to leave the tub and was immediately killed, since the pipe leading from the tub completed the circuit to the ground. The husband was killed when he took hold of the lamp in trying to assist his wife.

Obregon's Illness Halts Aide's Wedding

MEXICO CITY, July 22.—Owing to the illness of President Obregon, the wedding of Hortensia Calles, the widow of the secretary of the interior, to Ferdinand Torrelblanca, President Obregon's private secretary, set for today, has been postponed. President Obregon has not been at the national palace since Monday, when he returned from a week's vacation. His ailment, the attending physicians say, is very slight.

Dog Battles To Death With Rattlesnake

SAN ANDREAS, July 22.—A dog and a huge rattlesnake engaged in a duel to the death at the Danielson ranch home a few nights ago, the faithful family friend finally biting the deadly reptile in halves. It was struck several times by the snake, and while every care is being lavished on it, fears are felt that the brave animal may die. This is the first instance recorded in this section of a dog actually coming to grips with a rattlesnake, though cats have been known to catch harmless water snakes and even carry them home.

BOY BANDIT SHOT BY POLICEMAN

Youthful Burglar Caught in S. F. After Exciting Gun Battle.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 22.—A burglar alarm sounding like a fire bell in the still hours of the night led Patrolman Charles H. Cornelius to the scene of a crime early today and almost cost him his life, as he battled in a pistol duel with an 18-year-old boy. After ten shots had been exchanged the burglar's gun was empty, and Cornelius halted him with a wound in the back, which proved painful but not serious.

From times the hardware and sporting goods establishment of O. A. Bremer, 1287 Market street, was broken into before the proprietor installed his burglar alarm. The contrivance is a huge gun in front of the premises. This morning Jack Ward, 18-year-old son of a well-known family, climbed to the roof, plunged through a skylight and set off the alarm.

Gathering up three pistols, one of which he loaded, Ward, the police say, smashed the plateless window in front of the store in an effort to make a quick escape. Patrolman Cornelius was two blocks away at Seventh and Market streets when he heard the alarm. He arrived just as Ward crashed through the glass.

At sight of him the burglar opened fire, sending five shots at the officer who crouched in the doorway. Returning the fire, one of the bullets cut Ward down, striking him in the back. By this time Sergeant Albert Munn and several other officers arrived and Ward was first taken to the Central emergency hospital. Later he was charged with burglary and assault with intent to commit murder. His wound proved to be of the flesh variety and not serious.

The burglar alarm continued to ring for an hour after the occurrence and was not shut off until Bremer himself threw over a secret switch. Meantime all of the hotels in the vicinity where peopled with guests alarmed by the noise, who hastened into the corridors, anxious at the disturbance.

Pullman Shops Given Injunction

Richmond Women Among Striking Employees Enjoined.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 22.—Following a sympathetic walkout on the part of employees of the Pullman Company in a dozen cities in the United States, a restraining order was obtained today from Federal Judge Maurice T. Doelling enjoining the union organizations on strike and individuals everywhere from interfering with the operation of the company's cars and trains.

Named among the defendants is a number of women as well as male employees. Disorders at the Richmond shop in Contra Costa county are said to have been responsible for what the company sets forth as a sympathetic strike of its employees, following the walkout of the shopmen three weeks ago. The company states that it took no action relative to the strike until the trouble at the Richmond shop. It is charged that strikers have been intimidating employees of the company remaining at work at Richmond ever since July 13, that there has been violence and that women strikers have taunted women employees.

The walkout of Pullman workers is declared, occurred in Oakland, Richmond, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Portland, Seattle, Minneapolis, St. Paul, St. Louis, Kansas City, New York, Buffalo, Long Island City, Washington, D. C., Louisville and Cincinnati.

The organizations named as defendants include the International Association of Machinists, the International Brotherhood of Blacksmiths, Shop Forgers and Helpers, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Sheet Metal Workers' International Alliance, and Brotherhood of Railway Carmen of America.

The individuals named are said to live in all parts of the country, but the women are members of the Pride of California, local of the International Federation of Shopcraft, 122, and their names are given as Marie Lindow, Mrs. E. Johns, Veronica McCarthy, Mrs. John Jacob Berthold, Mrs. J. P. Reeves and Mrs. H. E. Houseman.

Judge Enjoins Husband From Other Women

CHICAGO, July 22.—John Haas was restrained by court order yesterday from "visiting, seeing, talking to or riding with any woman in Illinois except his wife." Another injunction restrained Haas' mother-in-law from "visiting, talking with, or in any way interfering with the domestic happiness or conjugal felicity" of Haas and his wife. The restraining order followed a reconciliation after Mrs. Haas had sued for divorce. She averred her husband would not "forget other women." He said his mother-in-law caused the trouble. The orders followed.

REBELS FLEE AFTER FALL OF LIMERICK

Capture of Stronghold by Free Staters Causes Rout of Irregular Forces; Retreat Made Towards Cork

Insurgents Fully Equipped With the Exception of Artillery; De Valera Flees to Clonmel Headquarters

DUBLIN, July 22 (By the Associated Press).—With both flanks of the Republican insurgent army broken through yesterday's capture of Waterford and Limerick, the irregular troops today were reported to be retreating in the direction of Cork. They are believed to number some thousands of soldiers sufficiently equipped with all arms except artillery, and they are expected to give the national army forces considerable trouble in guerrilla tactics, but it is doubted if they will make a determined stand before reaching Cork.

TELEGRAPH LINES TO CORK RESTORED. Telegraph lines from Cork were partially restored yesterday and messages reaching Dublin indicated that the city was comparatively quiet. Some travelers arriving in Dublin from Cork said most of the people were strongly in sympathy with the provisional government but that they were over-awed by Republican troops.

The national forces are said to be in complete control of Limerick except for a few insurgent snipers. Many business buildings were said to have been destroyed by fires which spread from the Strand and other barracks ignited by irregulars. Most of the insurgent soldiers apparently escaped.

LOOTED LIMERICK STORES, CHARGE. Reports reaching here through Free State channels charge the Republicans with having looted the Limerick stores of practically everything valuable. The loss is said to have amounted to several thousand pounds.

Eamon de Valera is alleged to have been in the city for some time but left when the attack began, going to Republican headquarters at Clonmel.

LONDON, July 22.—(By International News Service.)—Four banks at Dundalk, 45 miles northwest of Dublin, were raided this afternoon and large sums stolen, according to a despatch from Dublin. Several unarmed priests, passing one of the banks, attempted to capture the raiders, but were warned off by the latter's pistols.

9000 Maintenance of Way Men, 7300 Clerks Remain; U.S. to Pool Coal Supplies

DYNAMITERS WAR ON MINE RESUMPTION

Worker's Home Wrecked as Fields Resume Operation in Western Pennsylvania Dist.; Guarded by Troops

Government Charters Ocean Carriers to Import Fuel From Europe; Supply of 500,000 Tons Month Sure

WASHINGTON, July 22.—(By International News Service).—A government plan for the pooling of coal in the mine districts and the distribution of cars to carry it will be considered by a conference of coal operators called to meet in Washington next Monday. Secretary of Commerce Hoover announced today.

Plans of distributing to railways, public utilities, industries producing necessities will be considered at the conference, it was announced.

COKEBURG, Pa., July 22.—A troop train bearing the state militia into southwestern Pennsylvania soft coal fields was stoned from ambush near Monongahela today. A score of windows were broken but no one was hurt, it was announced.

Assaults from ambush fired on Charles Sharpnack, superintendent of the Wilson mine, which resumed operations two weeks ago. Sharpnack escaped injury.

By PAUL R. MALLEN, United Press Staff Correspondent. WASHINGTON, Pa., July 22.—Soft coal mines of southwest Pennsylvania were opened under a guard of 1000 soldiers today.

Final preparations were made by mine owners to begin actual production of fuel immediately, despite open threats circulated. Reports of violence were received at regimental headquarters here.

Strikers were alleged to have dynamited the home of Thomas Coster, a Youngwood, Westmoreland county, when he failed to heed warning that he quit work in the Penfield mine, No. 3, of the Keystone Coal Company. Coster and his family escaped injury.

Bloodhounds are being used by State police in a search for those responsible for wrecking a freight engine and five cars of coal on the Dunlap branch of the Monongahela railroad early today, causing serious injury to James Sutton, a brakeman. Traffic over this branch probably will be tied up all day.

U. S. CHARTERS SHIPS TO IMPORT COAL

NEW YORK, July 22.—Thirteen more ships, with an aggregate carrying capacity of 90,000 tons, were chartered today to import coal from Europe because of the coal strike. A. D. Lasker, chairman of the United States Shipping Board, here for a conference, said yesterday.

This is a total of twenty ships entered in the coal trade within ten days.

The available ships now in operation are capable of bringing in 500,000 tons every thirty days, and 2,000,000 tons could be imported monthly if necessary, Lasker declared.

Call for Troops Is Still Unnecessary

RICHMOND, July 22.—Chairman W. C. Fulerwider, of the B. R. T. legislative committee, sent a telegram to Governor Stephens yesterday urging that the state's chief executive not call out the national guard in connection with maintaining law and order in the coal strike.

Members of the railroad labor organization here believe that such precaution is not yet called for, and hinted that the presence of armed men upon trains would invite trouble.

Fulerwider's wire follows in full: "As chairman of the State Legislative Board, Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, and acting in con-

Raps Radicals For Actions in Stirring Strife

CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 22.—(United Press.)—Communists and other radicals taking advantage of the rail and mine strikes are active in the ranks of the big railroad brotherhoods with the ultimate object of overthrowing the government.

This was the statement here today of Daniel B. Robertson, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen of the "big four" brotherhoods.

Robertson exhibited a circular signed by "J. Davis, secretary of the executive committee of the communist party of America," in which the officials of the brotherhoods were branded as "cowards for submitting to edicts of the railroad labor board," and brotherhood members were urged to strike with the shopmen and the miners in defiance of their officials.

ORDERS IGNORED BY MEN AT WORK

Local Leaders May Be Disciplined for Refusing to Heed Strike Call.

With the stationary firemen, engineers and others of the Eastbay officially, but not actually, on strike, action was today threatened by their international officers against their local leaders, to prevent the latter from continuing to hold the men at work in violation of orders from international headquarters.

The walkout of these men, which, it is claimed, has been fully sanctioned by the Chicago headquarters of their union, would seriously cripple Southern Pacific interurban traffic here, and mark an important step in the progress of the strike, it was declared at strike headquarters at Seventh and Pine streets today.

LOCAL LEADERS NOT FOR "SEPARATE PEACE"

Other developments today in the railroad strike situation as it affects the Eastbay were:

Announcement by local labor leaders that no "separate peace" will be entered into between them and any of the western railroads. Assertions by international officers of the striking shopmen, at a meeting in Oakland today, that workmen are leaving the railroads faster than strikebreakers are joining them.

Admission by local railroad officials that the problem of how to move the huge shipments of perishable fruit that will grow larger as grape season advances, has not yet been solved.

AUTHORITY MAY BE TAKEN FROM THEM

An interchange of telegrams which was in progress today between international officers of the stationary firemen and others' union and local labor leaders may result in the taking away of authority from the local officials of that union who have prevented their men in the Eastbay shops from joining in the strike, it was intimated at strike headquarters here today.

According to telegrams received from Timothy Healy, international president of the union in Chicago, by L. S. Gordon, secretary-treasurer of the Federated Railway Employees, and William A. Spooner, secretary of the local union in Contra Costa county, Healy sent strike orders to James H. Coulsting, Pacific Coast vice-president of the firemen and others, which were not obeyed.

Healy today asked Spooner for full information with which, he intimated, he would deal.

Bandits Get $2000 In Hail of Shots

KANSAS CITY, Kan., July 22.—Twenty-five shots were fired, no one was hit, but three bandits escaped with a $2000 payroll en route to the office of the Howard Confectionery Company here.

TWO RAILWAY SYSTEMS TO RETAIN MEN

Strike of Maintenance of Way Employees on Michigan Central and Clerks on Northwestern Is Averted

Chairman Hooper of Labor Board Tells Harding Difficulty of Settling With 400,000 Shopmen on Strike

OGDEN, Utah, July 22.—(United Press).—One man was shot and one man was arrested charged with kidnapping today as a result of intense feeling here growing out of the railroad strike.

James Hines, aged 65, from McGill, Nevada, was shot as he left a freight train in the Southern Pacific yards. His assailant was not found. Hines' injury was not serious.

Spencer Nolan, said to be a striker, was arrested and held under $500 bond, charged with kidnapping an employee of the Southern Pacific shops.

By ASSOCIATED PRESS. LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE. DETROIT, Mich., July 22.—Strike of 9000 maintenance of way men on the Michigan Central lines been averted by the signing today of a wage agreement restoring the scale effective before July 1, it was announced. The agreement was signed by officials of the railroad and of the union.

The eight-hour day is re-established, but the rate of pay for overtime (labor has not been fixed, this matter having been left for further arbitration).

CHICAGO, July 22.—The threatened strike of 7300 clerks on the Chicago & Northwestern railroad has been postponed for the time being at least, according to reports reaching the United States railroad labor board this afternoon. The company is reported to have made some concessions.

It was reported at the Labor Board that the C. & N. W. had agreed to waive the usual 30-day notice and the clerks would present a petition to the board for a wage increase immediately.

The clerks are also asking sick pay, vacation pay and Saturday half-holidays.

MISSOURI TROOPS HELD FOR STRIKE DUTY

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., July 22.—Orders from Adjutant General Rupp at his temporary headquarters in Nevada, Mo., where the Missouri National Guard is in annual encampment, the 263rd artillery regiment and anti-aircraft company was to entrain this afternoon for Macon for possible service in the rail and coal strikes.

At Macon, it was explained, the units of the regiment could be detached in a few hours to either Hannibal or Moberly for duty. Both cities are largely railway strike centers on the Washburn and the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railways.

By JAMES T. KOLBERT, United Press Staff Correspondent. WASHINGTON, July 22.—Within 24 hours President Harding will move to the rail strike.

The executive today sought a solution of the nation-wide tie-up in a conference with Ben W. Hooper, chairman of the Railroad board, summoned from Chicago.

The President then will determine which action he can take towards settlement of the strike. It is believed he will bring rail executives and union leaders together for a peace conference.

The greatest obstacle in the path of an early settlement of the nation-wide strike of 400,000 railway shopmen is the question of restoring seniority rights to the strikers, Hooper told the President. Harding desired complete information before taking steps which he hopes will bring a settlement, gave the President the information of the demands made by the men to terminate the strike and the real cause underlying the walkout.

Hooper said that western and

Renomination Is Declined by Slep

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., July 22.—Representative C. Bascom Slep of the Ninth Virginia district, only Republican congressman from that state, today declined a definite statement finally deciding the renomination given him by the assembly at Norton, Va., Thursday.

MAINTENANCE OF WAY STRIKE TO BE AVERTED IN NORTH

9000 Men on the Michigan Central Lines Agree on 8-Hour Basis.

southern roads in general are ready to restore seniority privileges to the strikers, but that eastern roads feel that they are unable to do so because they have advertised that men taking places of the strikers would receive the same rights as the former employees.

Reports reaching the labor board stated that executives of the eastern roads fear they would be subject to suits for violating a virtual contract made in employing the strikebreakers.

Hooper is known to be somewhat pessimistic about an early settlement of the rail strike.

After an hour's conference with Hooper, President Harding summoned Senators Kellogg, Minnesota; Watson, Indiana, and Cummings, Iowa, of the Interstate Commerce committee, to the White House to talk over the strike crisis with the labor board chief.

Shortly after noon Secretary of War Weeks was called to the White House for a conference with Hooper and three members of the Senate of the Interstate Commerce committee.

PROSPECT OF PEACE IS STILL REMOTE.

CHICAGO, July 22.—(By International News Service.)—With prospects of peace still remote, but with hope still existing that an early adjustment would be reached, the strike of railway shopmen today entered its fourth week. There was a belief in some circles that the strike never would live to be a month old, while elsewhere the opinion prevailed that the walk-out is destined to acquire considerable strength before it finally is ended.

The chief hope of peace today centered in Washington, where Ben W. Hooper, chairman of the United States Railway Labor Board, conferred with President Harding in answer to the summons of the President. It was believed that a plan of adjustment that would be acceptable to all parties to the controversy might be evolved from this conference.

The pessimistic views arose from the apparently unyielding attitude maintained by both rail and union leaders. B. M. Jewell, head of the strikers, emphatically closed the door to separate agreements with the individual roads when he refused to sanction individual negotiations of shopmen's unions at St. Paul, and declared that there must be a national agreement before any settlement is possible.

No sign of any disposition to compromise came today from the rail executives. They continued their efforts to recruit shopmen from outside the ranks of the union and remained firm in their attitude of refusing to grant the demands of the strikers for the creation of a national board of adjustment and the restoration of seniority rights to the strikers.

MAINTENANCE MEN SUPPORT CHIEF'S STAND

Danger of a spread of the strike to other rail unions was believed lessened as a result of the decision of the grand lodge of the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees at Detroit to support the stand of E. F. Grable, president of the brotherhood, against a strike. With the maintenance men remaining at work it is not believed that any general strike movement will meet with success.

Representatives of 7000 clerks and freight handlers of the Chicago & Northwestern railroad conferred here today with W. L. McMenimen, labor member of the board, on the question of a strike. The clerks on this road have voted strongly in favor of a strike, but McMenimen hoped to persuade them to refrain from going out.

Later in the day McMenimen was to go to Moose Heart, Neb., to meet George H. Davis, but the purpose of this conference was not announced. Meanwhile evidence that the strike is beginning to apply brakes to the wheels of the railroad industry piled up. Announcements of discontinuance of trains came from all parts of the country. NINE HUNDRED TRAINS HAVE BEEN TAKEN OFF.

It is estimated that approximately 900 trains have been taken off the roads during the three weeks of the strike. Railway officials contend, however, that the coal shortage has caused more trains to be cancelled than the strike.

During the three weeks of the strike sporadic acts of violence have occurred in many places and as a result of threatening situations troops have been called out in eight states. These states are Ohio, Missouri, Kansas, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Georgia, North Carolina and New Hampshire.

By CHARLES R. LYNN

United Press Staff Correspondent. CHICAGO, July 22.—Railroad executives after fighting the walk-out of shopmen for three weeks are convinced they can break the strike.

The success which various roads have had in hiring new workers and inducing old men to return, has been the greatest factor behind their refusal to permit the return of strikers with full seniority rights, a leading executive stated today.

Eastern railroads especially have been successful in carrying out strikebreaking plans, this executive stated. While western lines are

Old Folk Crowd Tent At Big Revival Meeting

By FRANK B. SCHUMANN.

Old Folks' Day was observed yesterday afternoon at the tent tabernacle on Twenty-sixth street where the Alameda Semple McPherson revival meetings are being held. Thousands of gray heads, looking like vast seas of silver, covered more than an acre of ground, entirely filling the center section of the mammoth tent and overlapping into the side sections. The center section had been especially reserved for all people over forty. More than a thousand indicated that they were over 60 years of age, and more than a score of hands went up when a call for those more than eighty was made.

The oldest in attendance were given special seats upon the rear of the tent. The oldest man in the tent was E. J. Webster, of 411 Thirty-sixth street, aged 92, was the oldest in attendance, while others close to the head of the list were: W. S. Hines, 91, of 314 Grove street; and Mrs. M. J. Horns, 90, of Cloverdale. The oldest couple in attendance were Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Spangenberg, he being 88 years of age and she being 84. They live at 5425 Grove street.

SPECIAL HYMNS SUNG

Special hymns for the old folks which they selected themselves were sung, the oldest people in attendance were given preference in the selection of these hymns. Many of the hymns, now forgotten or never heard by many, were revived and sung with vim and vigor by many who were close to the century mark. Some of the songs led and lead the singing, and they seemed to enjoy it immensely, for many of the faces, wrinkled with years and many trials, were wreathed in smiles as they sang the old-time melodies.

The songs were followed by a "Promise Service," in which the audience participated with the older ones given first preference. "The Lord is my Shepherd, I shall not want" was by far the most popular of the Bible verses among them.

One of the women in the audience testified that she had been a member of the Christian church for 75 years as a member of the Methodist church.

REQUEST ANOTHER ONE.

So popular was the service that a request was made for another one, and it is to be held on next Friday afternoon. A special children's service is to be held next Saturday, and arrangements are also being made for a special young people's service.

A special service is to be held tomorrow morning for out-of-town visitors. All those who are affiliated with some church in the vicinity were invited to attend.

The pessimistic views arose from the apparently unyielding attitude maintained by both rail and union leaders. B. M. Jewell, head of the strikers, emphatically closed the door to separate agreements with the individual roads when he refused to sanction individual negotiations of shopmen's unions at St. Paul, and declared that there must be a national agreement before any settlement is possible.

No sign of any disposition to compromise came today from the rail executives. They continued their efforts to recruit shopmen from outside the ranks of the union and remained firm in their attitude of refusing to grant the demands of the strikers for the creation of a national board of adjustment and the restoration of seniority rights to the strikers.

MAINTENANCE MEN SUPPORT CHIEF'S STAND

Danger of a spread of the strike to other rail unions was believed lessened as a result of the decision of the grand lodge of the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees at Detroit to support the stand of E. F. Grable, president of the brotherhood, against a strike. With the maintenance men remaining at work it is not believed that any general strike movement will meet with success.

Representatives of 7000 clerks and freight handlers of the Chicago & Northwestern railroad conferred here today with W. L. McMenimen, labor member of the board, on the question of a strike. The clerks on this road have voted strongly in favor of a strike, but McMenimen hoped to persuade them to refrain from going out.

Later in the day McMenimen was to go to Moose Heart, Neb., to meet George H. Davis, but the purpose of this conference was not announced. Meanwhile evidence that the strike is beginning to apply brakes to the wheels of the railroad industry piled up. Announcements of discontinuance of trains came from all parts of the country. NINE HUNDRED TRAINS HAVE BEEN TAKEN OFF.

It is estimated that approximately 900 trains have been taken off the roads during the three weeks of the strike. Railway officials contend, however, that the coal shortage has caused more trains to be cancelled than the strike.

During the three weeks of the strike sporadic acts of violence have occurred in many places and as a result of threatening situations troops have been called out in eight states. These states are Ohio, Missouri, Kansas, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Georgia, North Carolina and New Hampshire.

By CHARLES R. LYNN

United Press Staff Correspondent. CHICAGO, July 22.—Railroad executives after fighting the walk-out of shopmen for three weeks are convinced they can break the strike.

The success which various roads have had in hiring new workers and inducing old men to return, has been the greatest factor behind their refusal to permit the return of strikers with full seniority rights, a leading executive stated today.

Eastern railroads especially have been successful in carrying out strikebreaking plans, this executive stated. While western lines are timated, he intended going over Coultling's head to order the local members of the union out on strike.

Announcement by the Southern Pacific company and other western roads that they were in a better physical condition to withstand a long drawn-out strike than were many of the eastern systems, was met today with the assertion that local strike headquarters that no "separate peace" would be considered with the local roads by the strikers in this section of the country.

"This strike will be settled collectively throughout the nation," Oakland officials of the striking shopmen said today. "The strongest roads will fare no better in the final negotiations than all the roads, strongest and weakest, fare together."

It was asserted that a suggestion for separate arbitration of strike difficulties had been made by the Northwestern Pacific Company to its striking employees, and that although they themselves were favorable to such a proposal, they sent back a negative answer on the ground that the national strike must be settled as a whole.

Eastbay strikers were addressed at their headquarters at Seventh and Pine streets today by J. T. Thorpe, international vice-president of the railway machinists, and by Harry J. Norton, international vice-president of the railway boiler makers. Both of these international officers declared that the situation throughout the country was favorable to the striking shopmen.

"Skilled mechanics are leaving the railroads in greater numbers every day than the railroads are able to hire unskilled laborers," Thorpe said.

Although declaring that their present facilities were being kept up in spite of the shortage of repair men, officials of railroad systems terminating here said today that these facilities would be strained to the utmost when the grape season arrives next month, with its requirements for immediate and fast movement of perishable shipments.

CHINA TO ABOLISH RUT-MAKING CART

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE. PEKING, July 22.—An effort will be made by the engineering department of the Peking Municipal Government to abolish the use of the "Peking carts" which play such havoc with the roads of the capital and which make road improvements everywhere in China almost an impossibility.

Imagine three or four tons of grain packed high on a cart of only two wheels, with those two wheels sometimes not more than an inch wide and shod with strips of iron. The cutting power of those wheels and the rapidity with which the roads will be sawed to pieces, as cart after cart, drawn sometimes by as many as eight beasts of burden, pass day after day, always following the same rut.

In Peking the paved thoroughfares are closed to these "engines of destruction" and the struggles of the mules and horses in the deep ruts and bogs of the earth roads are incredible.

Out in the country places, where there are as yet no paved roads, there is no salvation, and as time goes by the ruts grow deeper and deeper, and it is at last abandoned for new ground or sinks out of sight.

The American Red Cross, in building roads for famine relief during the last few years, has at- tempted to get rid of the ruts, but because of the disappearance of her son, who left home July 11, he is described as being large for his age, 5 feet 8 inches tall, with light complexion and brown hair. He weighs 145 pounds. At the time of his disappearance he wore a light-colored, dark brown clothes and brown shoes.

Any one knowing his whereabouts is requested to get in touch with Mrs. May Buckner, general delivery, Hayward, and let her know that everything is O. K. and his job is waiting."

tempted to introduce broad tread wheels to replace the narrow knife-edge of those now in use. It has been found that wheels three or four inches broad, shod with broad iron band "shrunk" on, instead of nailed on, as are the strips of iron at present, will pack down and smooth the road surface with the action of rollers, and improve the condition of the road rather than harm it. No very great success, however, has attended the efforts to have the farmers introduce these means to "better roads."

GENERAL SCORES FLAPPER FOR DISCRIMINATION

MILLION SOUGHT FOR CITY MUSEUM

RYAN DISASTER LONG FORECAST ON WALL STREET

NEW YORK, July 22 (United Press).—While the jangle and crash of the stock market still woke the echoes of Wall street and the same sounds were being heard distinctly in the bright light and luxury hotels of Broadway last night, the second guessers in clubs and brokers' rooms of New York were saying, "Ryan got fresh and the powers failed him."

For Ryan's defiance of the Stock Exchange governors and his consequent expulsion were long regarded as incidents which could portend nothing but disaster for the most spectacular "operator" in the current history of the "street."

Ryan defied the Stock Exchange, and the result was a financial disaster. Ryan, recently a millionaire, thirty times, now lists his cash assets in the bankruptcy petition at $150 to more than $500 a share.

ONE WAS CONSERVATIVE. Prior to the birth of "War Baby," Ryan was regarded as a conservative. His father before him, Thomas Fortune Ryan, was one of the very "powers" himself, and to him his own son, Ryan, recently a millionaire, thirty times, now lists his cash assets in the bankruptcy petition at $150 to more than $500 a share.

His father before him, Thomas Fortune Ryan, was one of the very "powers" himself, and to him his own son, Ryan, recently a millionaire, thirty times, now lists his cash assets in the bankruptcy petition at $150 to more than $500 a share.

Then Ryan was thrown off the exchange, and Ryan, with much of his fortune tied up in it, had to come through with the disposal of his holdings. Suddenly the paper of his other industrial interests became unwelcome at the banks. Ryan was a person bankrupt by his own petition, listing liability for such things as theater tickets, religious articles and his wife's failure of Ryan does not involve his brokerage houses and other interests, it was learned.

HORSE WITH RED FEET IS SOUGHT IN SAN LEANDRO

SAN LEANDRO, July 22.—H. H. Iverson, assistant city marshal of San Leandro, is harboring a faint, vague suspicion that someone has been kidding him. I think that it is wandering about the city some place, and I heard of your wonderful success in dealing with the goats and cows and dogs of San Leandro, I thought you'd be just the one to find him for me. ## LIFE SENTENCE FOR ROBBERY IS GIVEN GANGSTER

Purnell Knudsen and Companions Also Will Face
Statutory Charge.

Purnell Knudsen, one of the three alleged gangsters who criminally assaulted a 16-year-old Fremont high school girl in February, was today sentenced to Judge George Samuels. The term is from one year to life imprisonment. Knudsen and his two companions will be tried on the assault charge in September.

Knudsen, together with Jason Nickelson and Ben Jeffreys, have confessed a number of robberies to the police. They stole several automobiles and robbed a drug store in Alameda. The three were caught in San Diego.

The three were first taken on a charge of stealing an automobile, having a stolen car with them at the time. Later they confessed to other robberies and to the assault of the 16-year-old girl, officials say.

All have entered pleas of guilty to the robbery charges. According to District Attorney Ezra Decoto, the three will face trial together on the more serious offense, regardless of the disposition of the robbery charges.

In recommending today against any leniency for Knudsen, Adult Probation Officer Leonard Compton said:

"This will and reason Knudsen has, and he has carried him to second year in high school, has been diverted to planning crime of extreme violence, and into the execution of such crimes. He has no pity in him and has demonstrated that so long as he lives he has no right to be at large again."

SAN FRANCISCO, July 22.—The Furniture Dealers' Convention and Market Week came to a close today. According to T. E. Greaves, vice president of the convention, San Francisco Furniture Exchange, the market week this year was the most successful the furniture men have ever held on the Pacific coast.

The furniture men held their vendors' meeting and show at the Colonial ballroom of the Hotel St. Francis last night. "Dealers' Day" was observed today. Clifford A. ## "Liberty Means Vote," Says Prize-Winning Rotary Poster

Illustrated prize-winning poster emphasizing the civic duty of citizens to vote, as drawn by Robert L. Ker, 2021 Virginia street, Berkeley, in the contest held by Group 5 of the Oakland Rotary Club, of which Fred E. Reed is chairman. The drawing shows the Statue of Liberty and the words "Liberty Means Vote."

Berkeley Art Student Depicts Duty of Every Citizen of Fast-Growing Oakland.

The first result of the efforts of a group of eighteen earnest members of the Oakland Rotary club, to arouse a deeper sense of civic duty among Oakland's citizens, was the award today of $25 to Robert L. Ker, Berkeley art student, who drew the prize-winning poster.

Young Ker caught the spirit of the Rotarians. His drawing shows the Statue of Liberty and the words "Liberty Means Vote." In other words, this is the story the poster unfolds:

Without assuming the responsibility of citizenship there can be no personal liberty assured to all the people of the nation. Liberty stands a beacon light guiding the world to freedom, but it carries with it the thought that every citizen must speak his voice at the polls, else his liberty may be taken from him by dangerous demagogues, selfish interests, foolish radicals, sophist orators. Liberty carries with it a duty as well as a privilege.

Newspapers, individuals, social clubs, civic clubs, commercial organizations, labor unions, fraternal societies, all are asked to give the fullest measure of co-operation to the plan of group 5, Rotary club, in awakening the civic consciousness of Oaklanders.

PURPOSE OF GROUP 5.

In speaking of the purposes of Group 5, Fred E. Reed, chairman, said today:

"The group has adopted the Ephebic oath of the citizens of old Athens. A part of this oath reads: 'We will not stand idly by and let our quicken the public mind by our duty; that thus in all these ways, we may transmit the city greater, better and more beautiful than it was transmitted to us.'"

"That oath stands for virile citizenship and is just as adaptable to free America as it was to the liberty-loving Athenians."

"It is not the purpose of group 5 to find fault with those citizens who have not heretofore done their duty to their city as voters at the polls and voting. Rather is it to hold up to our citizenship the constructive thought that if every man and woman enjoying the privileges of citizenship in Oakland would give a little time two or three times a year in casting their votes for a better city, a city they love and revere, Oakland will become known the world over as a city of model government."

WILL AROUSE CIVIC PRIDE. In view of the lethargy that has prevailed in the past, it would seem a hard task, but the members of group 5 prefer to feel that every citizen of Oakland is actuated by the same personal regard for their city as actual members of our group. It is simply a matter of calling attention to their neglect in a way that will arouse their civic pride. The story of Oakland's move in this direction will be told in every city in the world where a Rotary club exists. It is good advertising for Oakland.

The winner of the second poster prize of $15 is Ted Kley of Fremont High school. Kley depicts a group of men and women entering a polling booth. In the background rises the city's skyline. The eyes of the voters are turned to the city. The words "Better American Citizenship—Do Your Duty at the Polls" emphasizes the idea.

As the material arrives, the bank will occupy the entire ground and basement floors, and when the improvements are completed the banking groups will be in a attractiveness and convenience with anything in the city. An innovation in the placing of the safety deposit vault on the ground floor, where it is easily accessible to customers.

As the building operations are being on the bank is completing all preliminary organization arrangements at temporary quarters on "eventful" street, opposite the postoffice. Here S. E. Biddle, president; Dave Perkins, vice-president, and several other officers and directors are devoting their entire time to the bank's affairs.

EX-FOLLES GIRL SILENT ON LOVE OF WHITNEY HEIR

Evan Burrows Fontaine, Oriental Dancer, Principal in Suit to Protect Child.

LOS ANGELES, July 22.—Evasive and refusing to answer direct questions concerning her tangled affairs with Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, son of Harry Payne Whitney, wealthy New York sportsman, Evan Burrows Fontaine, central figure of two actions said to have been filed in New York against young Whitney which involve the paternity of her 19-months-old baby boy, and his refusal to marry her, refused today to comment on the matter.

"I have been away from New York for several weeks and really am not in close touch with the case," said the former Folies girl and star of "Hot Spices of 1932" today at a local hotel.

The attractive Oriental dancer had little to say of the details of her romance with young Whitney further than to admit that at one time she had been much in love with him, following their meeting in 1919 at a ball given by Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt.

Miss Fontaine professed she was unaware of the fact that Whitney was supposed to be somewhere in southern California, but admitted that she had met him in a San Francisco hotel lobby last week and had spoken to him in passing. She also said that after meeting him he called her by telephone and asked to see her, but that she refused.

The former actress confirmed the report that her married life with Sterling Adair, Texas salesman, was only of a few hours' duration. "I don't know how the whole thing will come out," she said, "and though I'd like to thrash it out through the courts, I guess I haven't much chance against the Whitney millions."

Refusing to discuss the paternity of the child, said to be that of young Whitney, Miss Fontaine said she had left "Sonny" (as she called her baby boy) with her mother in New York.

A Distinction and a Difference

On the Congressional Limited a passenger who, to judge from the visible evidences, had been patronizing a boot-legger, hailed the Pullman conductor as the latter passed through the car.

"Shay, conductor," he inquired rather thickly, "how far is it from Wilmington to Baltimore?"

The conductor told him the distance in miles, and passed on. On his next appearance the inebriated one halted him again:

"How far is it?" he asked, "from Baltimore to Wilmington?"

"I told you how far it was just a few minutes ago," said the Pullman man.

"No, you didn't," said the traveler. "You told me how far it was from Wilmington to Baltimore. What I want to know now is how far is it from Baltimore to Wilmington."

"Say, listen," said the irate conductor. "What are you trying to do—make a goat of me? If it's so many miles from Wilmington to Baltimore, isn't it necessarily bound to be the same number of miles from Baltimore to Wilmington?"

"Not nesheshar'ly," said the other. "It's only a week from Christmas to New Year's, but look what a devil of a distance it is from New Year's to Christmas."

Uncle Wiggily Stories by HOWARD GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE OLD MILL

"A H, Uncle Wiggily! Are you in a great hurry this morning?" called Mrs. Bow Wow, the dog lady, to the bunny rabbit gentleman as he hopped past her kennel house one day.

"Am I in a hurry? Why, not specially," answered Uncle Wiggily, with a low and polite bow of his cap, as he stopped to find out what was wanted. "Did you wish me to go to the store for you?" he asked the dog lady.

"Nurse Jane wants me to bring her a yeast cake, and if I may have the pleasure of bringing you a pound of sugar or a loaf of bread I shall be most happy."

"No, it isn't anything I want from the store," said Mrs. Bow Wow. "But if you pass near the Old Mill I wish you would tell my two puppies, Jackie and Peetle, to come home."

"Yes," answered Mrs. Bow Wow. "They pretend the old moss-covered mill wheel is a merry-go-round. Only a little water splashes over it now, for the Old Mill isn't in use."

"I know," said Uncle Wiggily. "I'll tell them it is time they started home."

With another polite bow to the dog lady Uncle Wiggily hopped over the fields and through the woods toward the Old Mill. Well, he knew where it was, on the banks of the little river which used to turn the mill wheel.

Years ago the Old Mill was young. Then it was that the country folk brought their corn and wheat to be ground into flour and meal. But those days passed, the Old Mill was tumbling down, and now only the animal folk played around it. The wheel, which used to turn so fast as the water splashed over it, now creaked and groaned as Jackie and Peetle pretended it was a merry-go-round.

As Uncle Wiggily was hopping across a field, near the Old Mill, all of a sudden there was a rustling in the bushes, and out popped the Fox.

"Oh, ho!" howled the Fox, as he saw the rabbit. "There is no sharp wire fence here for you to slip under, leaving me to be caught. I'll have you now!"

"Not until you catch me," cried Uncle Wiggily, and he started to run, straight toward the Old Mill. "If I can get there perhaps Jackie and Peetle will bark and drive away the bad Fox," thought the bunny.

Faster and faster he leaped and ran, his heart beating against his ribs. Into the Old Mill dashed Uncle Wiggily, calling:

"Jackie! Peetle! Save me from the Fox!"

But no brave puppy dogs

"I don't know," squeaked Mrs. Mouse.

barked in answer. Instead a squeaky voice asked:

"Who is calling Jackie and Peetle? They aren't here! They were playing on the wheel, but they went home long ago!"

"Oh, dear! Then I'm gone! The Fox will get me unless you can save me," cried Uncle Wiggily. "Who are you?" he asked, for he saw no one.

"I am old Mrs. Mouse," was the answer, and out from a crack in the floor came the gray mouse lady, her whiskers covered with bits of flour and cobwebs.

"Oh, Mrs. Mouse! The Fox is chasing me!" cried Uncle Wiggily. "I'm afraid he will come in here and get me. He wasn't far behind me as I dashed in. Is there any way I can be safe?"

"I don't know," squeaked Mrs. Mouse. "Let me see now. If you—"

"Couldn't I get in on the mill wheel and go around and around so fast that the Fox wouldn't see me?" asked the bunny.

"Alas!" answered the mouse lady, "the old wheel is so rusty that it goes as slowly as a snail. That's why Jackie and Peetle didn't stay here to play on it. They could not ride fast enough."

"Oh, but what shall I do?" cried Uncle Wiggily. "The Fox is coming after me!" he exclaimed, looking from a broken window.

"Hail I have it," suddenly squeaked Mrs. Mouse. "In one corner of the Old Mill is some white flour, left here when the miller went away. I have been living on it for many months. Now if you will roll yourself in that flour you will become covered with it, and made as white as a bed sheet."

"What good will that do?" asked the bunny. "The Fox can see white as well as black."

"After you have rolled in the flour and are all white," said Mrs. Mouse, "run out the other door and hide in that field of white daisies! I have been living on it for many months. Now if you will roll yourself in that flour you will become covered with it, and made as white as a bed sheet."

Uncle Wiggily did this and, running out the east door as the Fox came in the west door, the bunny crouched down in the midst of the daisy field.

"Where's Uncle Wiggily? Where's Uncle Wiggily?" cried the Fox, rushing into the Old Mill. Mrs. Mouse, who had hidden herself under the floor, did not answer. "Uncle Wiggily was here, but he's gone," growled the Fox. "Where is he?" The Fox looked at the field of daisies, but, because Uncle Wiggily was white, like the flowers, the Fox never noticed him. "Fooled again!" barked the angry Fox, and he slunk back to the woods.

"Thank you! That was a good trick!" said the bunny to Mrs. Mouse as she helped him dust off the flour. "The Old Mill saved me."

NEW INDICATION OF MURDERESS' PREMEDITATION

Discovery of Purchase of Pistol by Woman Resembling "Mrs. Phillips."

LOS ANGELES, July 22.—Mrs. Clara Phillips, whose trial for the murder of Mrs. Albert Meadows has been set for September 18, is believed to have purchased an automatic pistol two days before the young widow was beaten to death with a hammer, according to a story published today.

A duplicate record of the sale of the pistol which the police departments require all dealers in such articles to keep was located and the salesman, John H. Raney, said the woman who purchased the weapon seemed to resemble in every detail the newspaper pictures he had seen of Mrs. Phillips.

A statement from the sheriff's office declared the purchase of the pistol such a short time before the slaying of Mrs. Meadows "was considered additional evidence of premeditation" on the part of Mrs. Phillips.

The purchaser signed her name as "Mrs. A. L. Phillips." The initials are the same as those of the husband of the defendant in the Meadows murder.

The age given was 27 years, differing from the statement that she was 23 years old, made by Mrs. Phillips to jail officials, when they wrote down a record of her arrival there.

The purchaser gave the address of Mrs. Phillips and other data supplied the salesman corresponded with other statistics officially pertaining to Mrs. Phillips, including height of five feet five inches, fair skin, blue eyes and brown hair.

Mrs. Phillips' husband was quoted by sheriff's deputies as having told them his wife, who was born in Texas, was an expert shot, and "could cut an apple in two with a six-shooter at several hundred feet."

Raney said the woman who purchased the pistol asked "for just a load of cartridges, not a full box." The pistol has not been located.

The accomplished young woman, the debutante set who has devoted her time to the more serious side of life.

O'Brien is a son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. O'Brien of Minneapolis. He was graduated from Amherst College in the east and spent some time abroad before coming to this city.

A honeymoon trip will be made through the southern part of the state. The future home of the couple will be in Stockton.

The wedding of Miss Alice Goodfellow and Donald Rheem is one which the younger set is looking forward to with interest in the fall. Miss Goodfellow, with her parents, is at the family summer home at Santa Cruz and will not return to their apartments at the Hotel Oakland until the middle of September.

Starlight

Edith McGraw-Gibson

Virginia, daughter of the first families of Virginia, is the first of a new series of stories by Edith McGraw-Gibson. The story is a very important place in a picture. The story is a very important place in a picture. The story is a very important place in a picture.

Virginia is very happy over the expected arrival of her father and her mother. She is very happy over the expected arrival of her father and her mother. She is very happy over the expected arrival of her father and her mother.

A DAY'S WORK.

I confess I was a little nervous when I reached the boat the next day. When I found that they did not intend taking the water scene I felt relieved.

Aunt Virginia, Eddie and Mrs. Chester came down to the dock with me and the director took a few shots of Mrs. Chester bidding me goodbye.

To Aunt Virginia's surprise and delight the director impressed her and Eddie into the goodbye scene. "Does that mean Virginia, that I will be seen in your picture?" "Of course you will."

"What would your grandfather think of it?" "He has probably turned over in his grave before this," whispered Eddie with a grin.

At last we boarded the boat and started away. Maud Sanson, Theo and I went through a number of scenes on the dock with Mrs. Chester, Aunt Virginia and Eddie behind the camera looking on.

It was a perfectly gorgeous day and I was very happy over the prospect of having to jump in to the sea in the near future.

Theo made himself very agreeable to Aunt Virginia and she confided in me. The thought was very lucky to have been asked to play with such a fine gentleman.

"Virginia, he makes me think of you father."

"Oh, I hope not," I said before I thought. "Why not?" was her surprised query.

"Oh, I evaded, 'I do not want any man to be like my father.' The day was taken up with shots of deck scenes. There were a number of scenes between Maud Sanson and Theo where he was supposed to have told her that he loved me and he thought it better for them to break their engagement than to marry her under the circumstances.

There was also a scene or two where the two men and the boy who were supposed to help Theo run the boat were brought on deck for some trifling duty.

Theo's Jap servant brought, us cooling drinks. Then the camera was put at such an angle that in the picture it would look as though the yacht were tipping dangerously. I could appreciate how exciting it would look in a film. Some shots were taken of Theo hastily leaving the deck and returning with the news that the sailors had left the ship taking the only small boat aptly abandoning us to our fate.

Maud Sanson was supposed to collapse with fear and fling herself on Theo's neck. Theo looked at me and said "I think I could reach the punch with one of you."

This, of course, forced Theo to choose which of us he would save. Maud clung closer to his neck and ignored him not to leave her behind.

Theo put her away from him decidedly and walked over to me. He told me that there might be time before the yacht broke up for him to come back, but "The one who stays behind must take the chance."

"I shall try, my dear, to come. You may be sure of that."

Maud again begged him not to leave her alone and declared that she would throw herself into the sea and follow us if he chose to take me.

"Allen, you must take 'Avis,' I said following the script.

"Doris, I cannot leave you."

"Go! It is the only chance for any of us—hurry!"

"He picked up a chair and throws it overboard presumably to help him with Maud."

"That will do for today," announced the director. Turning to his assistant he said, "Billy, where is the food you ordered? The Jap to get busy. We'll enjoy ourselves on the ride back."

In just a little while we were all eating a "picnic supper," as Aunt Virginia called the canned meat box lunch with its two-day-old sandwich, its oiled paper envelope of stale and greasy potato chips, a soggy piece of apple pie with the inevitable tin spoon. Fortunately we did have good coffee. They made it on the boat.

Mrs. Chester crossed the deck to where the camera man was explaining his work to Eddie. Maud had taken out her vanity case and was repairing her complexion. Theo and the director were deep in plans for the next day's work.

I heard the director say a bit anxiously, "You don't think Stratton, that little Winston will weaken, do you. I really wish we had a double ready."

YOSEMITE SLIDE CAUSED BY RAINS

YOSEMITE, July 22.—Government officials late yesterday determined that the land slide on the Ledge Trail earlier in the day, in which eleven persons were injured, was caused by the loosening of rock by rain. They declared that no further slide was likely.

The ledge trail has always been considered dangerous and is not recommended for travel. It is now closed temporarily, as a result of the slide, and will not be reopened until a thorough investigation has shown that there is no further danger of slides. All other trails in the Yosemite National park are open as usual.

Miss Frances Kilham, of Merced, who suffered a fractured ankle and body bruises in the slide, is resting easily and the physician in attendance reported she was in no danger. The others in the party caught by the slide were less seriously hurt.

E. L. Fleming, of Taft, was severely bruised when he delayed seeking safety for himself in order to pull Miss Eleanor Reigg of Palo Alto, behind a projecting boulder when he saw the avalanche coming. He also made a futile effort to drag Miss Kilham to safety.

That Curious Device for Making Fire

It was only seventy-five years ago that a woman of the Middle West wrote to her cousin in New York:

"Last winter I was told of a curious new device for making fire. It consisted of small splinters of wood with tips of some substance that burst into flame when rubbed on a rough surface. If you can procure some of them for me I shall be grateful."

Matches were in general use in Europe for years before they were seen in this country. There was no means for spreading such news rapidly.

Today, the new invention that contributes to comfort or convenience is quickly known the country over. Advertising conveys the information. The farmer's wife in Texas or Idaho is as well posted on these things as the city woman of the East.

Don't overlook the advertisements in these columns. They are heralds of progress, with real news for you and your family. They save your time, lighten your work and enable you to obtain the utmost in value for the money you spend.

GIANTS HANGING ON TO NATIONAL LEAGUE LEAD BY EYELASH

R. NORRIS WILLIAMS DEFEATED BY WILLIAM TILDEN IN FINALS OF LONGWOOD TENNIS MEET

N. Y. Pressed
For the Lead
By CardinalsCleveland Wins Twelfth in Row; Moves Into First Division.

CHICAGO, July 22.—(By the Associated Press.)—By virtue of a statistical freak, the Giants still cling to the lead in the National League race, four percentage points ahead of the St. Louis Cardinals. The Red Sox and Yankees, in a bout of hits to defeat the Giants 5 to 3, while the St. Louisans in a one-inning hitting spree won from the Braves, 6 to 1.

The Cubs shut out Philadelphia, 6 to 0, with Morrison hurrying in relief. Wilbert Robinson's Brooklynites lost, 1 to 0, to the Cubs in the fastest played game of the season, 73 minutes. Grover Alexander held the Dodgers to four hits.

With Bob Meusel hitting perfectly in four times at bat and scoring or driving in all runs, the Yankees defeated Detroit, 7 to 0, and kept pace with the Braves, who pounded three Athletics hurlers for 16 hits and a 10 to 3 victory. Speaker's Indians won their twelfth straight game, taking the Washington club 1 to 0. The Reds needed the Detroit club from fourth place. John Collins' work at the plate enabled the Red Sox to win from the White Sox, 8 to 7, in eleven innings, and the Bostonians gave up the cellar position to the Mackmen.

The veteran, Walter Johnson, of the Senators, was shaded by Morton of Cleveland, when the former was whitewashed 3 to 0. Each was touched for five hits, but a triple and a single coming together proved the downfall of the Washington ace.

The Washington club by completing three double plays had brought its string of "me-to-you-to-him" killings to 100.

Jacques Fournier, the happy Frenchman with the Cardinals, uncorked a four-bagger with the bases loaded and made it easy for his team to beat Boston, although they were out almost 2 to 1.

A slip by Ward when he had a chance to retire a batter, gave a five-run lead on the Yankees, Cobb and Vanech each cracking homers on the second pitched ball, but when Meusel got going, it was something else again.

Weismuller Holds
Thirty-two Records

SAN FRANCISCO, July 22.—(United Press.)—Bill Daubach, manager and coach of the youthful Johnny Weismuller, swimming marvel, predicts that before many years his protégé will have practically every record in the swimming catalogue. Weismuller, who is thirty-two years old, holds thirty-two records in the world's records in all. And he is knocking over new ones almost daily. The complete list to date—subject to augmentation momentarily—is as follows:

Swimming Races
At Idora Sunday

Three P. A. A. championship swimming races are scheduled for Idora Park Sunday afternoon. There will be the senior women's 220 yards, free style; the 100 yards, free style, for senior men, and the men's 200-yard relay. The events will be held promptly at 3 o'clock.

Florence Presenhausen and Hilja Curtis are scheduled to furnish most of the excitement in the women's race, though Eleanor O'Brien, Bert Seyden, Alice Glynn and Harriet Richards are working hard for the event.

In the 100 yards for men Lester Smith looks like a winner with George Schroth second. However, like Kellipio, Eddie Miller, Jess Ryan and Charles Dale are promising to give the spectators a good rub.

The relay will be fought out between the Olympic Club, Pacific City, Idora Park and Neptune Beach.

Kirkwood and Hagen

Broadway Bill's
Weekly Review
by Bob Stand

They's a lot of turf missin' out to the Sequoyah Country club, where Jack Chambers and Dan McGee was tryin' to play golf the other afternoon. Seems that Jack and Dan got into an argument about golf at the night on night and with thought the other was bluffin' an' both was dead right. Chambers was tellin' McGee that a brassie nibble was a whole lot better stick than a birdie six, and McGee, not knowin' the differ, insisted that an eagle eighteen was a better club than a dornie. That started the argument, an' before they got through, Chambers thought he was John Black and McGee insisted he could play rings around Gene Sarazen. A mutual frien' suggested they fight it out on the links and both accepted, thinkin' that the other would back out. When they got out on the course they were still braggin' about their playin' an' kept it up until the pill was placed on the sand hill for the first hole. Jack made five swipes in succession without disturbin' the ball and he finally gives the pill a swift kick. McGee misses only twice an' then the club slips out his hand and comes down the fairway for a hundred yards. They go round the course in seven hours but they wouldn't have been through yet if they hadn't thrown the ball and when an occasional boost with their feet. As galtera J. Chambers is a swell city service commissioner and Dan McGee is one of Kahn's most trusted employees.

Durin' the week Jess Willard has received half a dozen offers to box an' the promoters has offered him good jack. But they ain't a chance of Jess gettin' knocked for a goal until Dempsey does it, that is if they ever dare try an' stage such a farce. Willard's trainin' is the one big joke of the season. All Jess wants is to get in the ring with the champ. He thinks the dear public is just dyin' to see him in action again, but he ain't got to take a chance with Fulton, Walls, Brennan or any of them regular fighters. They would probably stop him in a round and they wouldn't be no half a million dollars worth of customers draped around the ring. Looks like Jess is only foolin' himself.

The San Francisco magnates is just about convinced that Oakland is a regular ball town. Doc Strub and his frien's thought it would take about two months to convince Cal Ewing that Oakland could not support a regular ball team and here they are drawin' better jack than they ever took in across the bay. An' in addition the Oaks is givin' the Seals some lessons on how to play the game. Guess they'll stop mounin' in San Francisco after this week.

JOE JACKSON SAYS HE
"NEVER DONE NOTHIN"

NEW YORK, July 22.—Billed as "Shoeless Joe" Jackson and introduced as the greatest outfielder of all times, the former White Sox star made his first public speech here last night in his campaign to get back into baseball.

"I ain't guilty of nothin'. I'm standin' on my reputation as a clean cut, honest ball player and am asking the jury of fans for a square deal," Jackson told a crowd of about 2200 in an uptown hall.

"I ain't wantin' back in professional baseball, but I want to play with the best crowd. If I can't get a square deal, I'll be back in the big leagues. I'll be pleased to go back. I played my hardest in the 1910 world's series. I fielded 1000 and batted .375 in the series. You can't throw no ball games that way. I tried hard to win, and no one had more heart bleedin' than I did about that series."

WEISSMULLER
WINS SWIM AT
BRIGHTON BEACH

NEW YORK, July 22.—Johnny Weissmuller of the Illinois Athletic club, Chicago, easily won the national A. U. 440-yard open-water swim today in a field of 46 at Brighton Beach, but failed to equal the record of 5:07.4 he recently established at Honolulu. Weissmuller finished fifty yards ahead of the field in 5:16.4.

Thomas Blake, Los Angeles, won American long distance champion, was second, 16 yards ahead of Lee Jarvin, Dallas, Texas, southern champion, who barely defeated James Hall, Brooklyn, former long distance champion, for third place. Weissmuller dove into the lead and constantly drew away from the field over the 110-yard course, reaching the half way mark 15 yards ahead of Jarvin, who began to fall back before the challenge of Blake. The winner swam without exertion and finished in good shape.

Morrow-Ridley Go
Is Labor Day Plan

SPOKANE, July 22.—Considerable doubt as to whether the proposed Lake Morrow-Buddy Ridley featherweight boxing bout, planned to be held across the Idaho line in the near future, can be arranged before Labor Day, was expressed by Ridley's manager, Joe Waterman, who stopped off here on his way east.

Waterman agreed, however, as soon as he had conferred with eastern promoters, to wire Spokane concerning possibilities of holding the bout in the next two months. Morrow already has expressed his willingness to fight.

SCALPERS ARE BUSY.

NEW YORK.—Ticket speculators who are said to have come into possession of the first ten rows of seats for the Tondler-Leonard fight are demanding $35 for 15 seats.

SEATTLE, July 22.—Leon de Thaurine, former Harvard star, and Harold Van Dyke Johns, city champion, both of Seattle, will settle the men's state singles championship this afternoon. De Thaurine qualified for the finals yesterday by eliminating Marshall Allen, Pacific Coast international champion, in the best played match of the Washington state tennis tournament.

Three state titles were decided yesterday. Armand Marion, of Seattle, being returned junior champion; Mrs. Roger Dragoon and Miss Sara Livingstone, women's doubles champions; and Miss Mayne MacDonald of Seattle and Marshall Allen the mixed doubles champions.

Boxing
Chatter

Some of the scrappers who will entertain at the Auditorium next Wednesday night will see through their noses at the West Oakland gymnasium tomorrow afternoon. Jimmy Duffy, who will tangle with Eddie Mahoney in one of the main events, has been in the rounds with Harold Algenon Broom holding the watch. Ray Pelkey, who meets Jack Reeves in the other main event, will probably have a rough row with the champion. The fight will be a good one, offering for next week is a wonder.

Down at Vernon last night Benny Viegna took an easy decision over Joe Coffey and Teddy Silva, Jockey Levy's star defeated "Dandy Dick" Griffin. The fight was a good one and the following were the winners:

"Viegna looked Coffey easily and Teddy Silva walloped Dick" Griffin, the man with the big reputation."

The main event at Dreamland Rink, San Francisco, last night was so slow that most of the customers moved out before the decision was given. Jack Sparr, Los Angeles lightweight, was pitted against Eddie Diggs. Sparr thought he had to do was to stall around and be on his feet at the finish and Diggs can't fight any more. The judges gave it to Diggs.

Another was the "kick" of the show, the southern lad knocking Frankie Thurston cold in the first round. Young Papke was soundly defeated by Eddie Diggs. Young Papke was soundly defeated by Eddie Diggs. Young Papke was soundly defeated by Eddie Diggs.

Tennis Stars in Cleveland Tourney

CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 22.—New York, Chicago and Pittsburgh tennis players eliminated Ohio's representation in the second round of the national intercity doubles tournament here yesterday.

The hopes of Kirk M. Reid and Charles Carran, Cleveland's representatives, were dashed by Samuel Hardy and Howard Vossell, the New York duo, who won 6-2, 6-2, 6-1. Not once did the New Yorkers exert themselves. In fact they gave the Clevelanders the third set.

Kenneth Brown and John Crafts, the Toledo pair, were no match for Walter T. Hayes and Alex Squair, losing to the Chicagoans, 5-3, 6-6, 6-2.

Charles S. Garland and William McElroy, Pittsburgh won from Donald Boyd and Stark Franches, Columbus representatives, 6-3, 6-1, 6-1.

Edna Burdick and Young Priest, Indianapolis, national city doubles champions, drew a bye yesterday.

The semi-final match will be played today. New York's play against the Indianapolis will oppose Chicago.

New Billiard Mark

PARIS, July 22.—Roger Conti, the French billiard player, in a match with Albion, another Frenchman, ran 3600 points at 10.5 last-line in 12 innings for an average of 61. French billiardists claim this is a world's record average, the former record of 57, having been held by Jake Schofer, the world champion, 62, against Scholier's record of 436, made in 1921.

Cibelin in the match scored 2126 points.

GOLF FACTS
worth knowing

by INNIS BROWN

- Two players are playing in a medal qualifying round without caddies. On a certain hole with both balls on the green, one player is taking a look at the hole. The other player's ball is over the cup and is stopped by this lag. Is there any penalty for either?
- No. It was a bad practice for the player to look at the hole, but the case is treated as a rub of the green.
- What is the penalty in a four-some play medal competition, if one player plays the ball and it strikes his partner?
- The penalty is one stroke.
- Is there any limit to the number of strokes that may be played with a provisional ball, before a player can, on finding the first ball, resume play with it?
- No. The idea of allowing a provisional ball to be played is to give time for the match. If a player plays the second ball poorly and takes any number of strokes to reach the hole where the first ball is found, he can still resume play with the first ball, if it is found playable.
- In a three-ball match A and B driven to the rough, the balls are struck quite close together. Through mistake, A plays B's ball and vice versa. They finish out the hole with the balls thus exchanged. When informed of the mix-up C claims the hole from both of them. Was he correct? Also how about A and B?
- A. C was right. As between A and B, the hole was won by mutual and any penalty was cancelled.
- Where one player has holed out in five strokes, and his opponent playing his fifth over-stroke, the hole is lost. If he strikes the first player's foot, is there any penalty?
- A. The opponent is entitled to claim a stroke on the hole. If any golf rules puzzle you, write them to Brown, care of our office, enclosing stamped, return envelope.

BANKERS WELCOMED.

Oakland is fortunate in having as its guests at a time when its rapid development is so apparent, seven hundred members of the American Institute of Banking. No class of men is in closer touch with the investors of the country.

When the bankers who were shown the Eastbay cities today have returned to their homes in several hundred cities of the land they will have a correct mental picture of this community. When called upon for advice or information concerning the industrial and home area here they will be equipped for a ready and understanding reply.

The guests of the city were shown what is here as the foundation for manufacturing development, they saw new structures rising on the business streets, and were impressed with the hundreds of new homes and apartments. The Eastbay is assured that its message has been put over whenever the record of what is now transpiring for expansion is brought before an outside attention.

The bankers, on the way home from their convention at Portland, have become acquainted with Oakland and Northern California. The city was honored in the privilege of being their hosts.

TREES AS SPOKESMEN.

It is to be hoped the skies are clear tonight that the moon may throw its pattern over the carpet of Oakland's sequoia grove. The trees up there are going to plead for their lives, to ask of this new civilization which has filled the plains with homes and is crowding up the slopes the right to remain.

There is a campaign on in Oakland to save the 1,500-acre grove of sequoias. If the saving is not done now, with the vote at next month's election, the last opportunity will be lost. As a part of this campaign Oakland citizens have been invited to camp in the grove this evening and tomorrow.

Under the stars the sequoias will make their own appeal. Nothing speaks the messages of Nature more eloquently than a tree. There is nothing which grows that can occasion so much of wonder and awe. So it is to be hoped the skies are clear tonight when the sequoias talk to the campers. But if the fog clings to the top branches or the wind rushes by up there with the noise of a freight train on a rickety bridge, those who sleep on the forest-made cushion will be safe and dry. They will be camping in a cathedral of magnificent shadows.

This is perhaps the first time a forest has been asked to speak for itself. If all of Oakland could camp in the grove and hear the quiet voices no question would be attached to the proposal of saving the sequoias.

FRESNO COUNTY'S GROWTH.

It is no task for Fresno county to assemble its claims for a large part of recognition in the campaign for the development of Northern California. The story is written in figures large enough to be visible to the most casual observer.

An increase in assessed valuation of approximately three million dollars over last year will mean the county is to remain in the fourth class. Adding the paid personal property tax to the assessment rolls the valuation is more than $173,000,000.

Here are but a few of the new things being done in the county, the actual present-day evidences of progress:

The county is to have a $7,000,000 American Neoman Home. It will be situated on 2,500 acres of land and include factories at which children will be taught trades.

Reedley has awarded contracts for high school buildings to cost $293,480. Kingsburg has opened a $35,000 theater. Good yields are reported from the grain crops all over the San Joaquin.

This week the start was made of a campaign for state and national aid to complete a road as a part of the Roosevelt National Highway connecting the San Joaquin Valley with the Owens River valley and tapping the scenic mountain highway including the Palisades Glacier. This glacier is practically unknown, even on the coast. Piute Pass is the highest pass crossed by a highway.

In the story which Northern California will tell the world Fresno county has prominent place. Recent developments prove it is not content with its record but is recognizing new and wonderful opportunities.

FARM PRODUCTS SHOW.

The Eden Valley Farm Products Show, held annually at Hayward, is to emerge this year as a larger exposition and festival than this part of the state has seen in years.

The Farm Products Show has become traditional; it's fame has reached far beyond the county's borders. It has always been one of those solid exhibitions of produce and enterprise which, while they make no wide appeal for patronage, win it, nevertheless, for the worth of what is shown. It is, moreover, an authentic expression of agricultural Alameda county and as such should be encouraged and supported by every community in this section.

This year the show at Hayward takes on a larger significance. Sonoma county, it is announced, will be represented for the first time. San Leandro will go in wholeheartedly with booths and workers to help work for the success of the greater show. Hayward is making unusual plans for the entertainment of the guests who will come, for the decoration of its streets and homes, and has found more of enthusiasm within its own precincts than ever before. The Farm Products Show will be held from August 9 to 13, which gives to Oakland and the Eastbay more than two weeks in which to help Hayward spread the story of the good time coming.

WISE CHOICES DEMANDED.

The last hour in which a candidate may file his petition for nomination in the August primaries has passed. The race, with seventy-five contestants bunched at the tape in Alameda county, may be said to have started. With the outside aspirants for state office added to the list, voters here will have the opportunity to select their choices from 150 candidates.

The large list of contenders, while it may bring some confusion, is a healthful sign of a quickened interest in state and county government. It will be noticed that for the State Assembly and the State Senate, positions of but small pecuniary reward, there is assured a contest for the nomination in each district. There is a growing realization that these offices are, primarily, among the most important. It is in the State Legislature laws affecting the conduct and the taxes of the people are made; there the commonwealth through representatives lays its plans and fashions its program. The highest type of senators and assemblymen is needed.

The voter who studies the list of entrants will find but one contest for place on the Board of Supervisors, a spirited race for Congress from the Sixth District; and three-cornered fights, at least, for district attorney, sheriff and other county offices. For county clerk there is no opposition.

With the last filing day passed, there remains but one week in which voters may register. Unless by July 29 the great body of voters in Alameda county shows an interest proportionately as active as has been exhibited by aspiring candidates, the registration will be below normal.

The bench has come to the assistance of the idea of knickerbockers and cigarettes for girls. It hardly needed a judicial boost, for it showed no signs of fading off; but Judge McLaughlin of New York in reversing the conviction of a girl who had received a three years' sentence from another magistrate put it in that way. The account is to the effect that the girl had been arrested in a bungalow owned by her father, and all the offense mentioned is that she was wearing knickerbockers and smoking cigarettes. That seems to be all that the reversing Judge took any account of, and if there was nothing more his decision was reasonably righteous.

It may not be flying to pass up a cynicism at the expense of a community when an editor in another community sees a chance to make a point, but it is being done in this new spirit that is being created in Northern California around the boost idea. And it is rather astonishing how much is said in one community in derision of another just in the spirit of saying the smart thing.

Airplanes are being used by the Forest Service to "photograph undiscovered lakes." Once upon a time the airplane was considered impossible but nowadays, if one believes all that the press agents write, a man may ride in one of them and snap pictures of places not discovered.

Jail sentences have been imposed on two men in Sierra county for leaving camp fires in the forest. Those who may have thought the warnings meaningless and who cannot learn except by the fear of punishment may profit by this object lesson.

If a poll in a popular weekly is to be credited the country is taking to drink through a straw ballot

The Great Stage Mystery.

Jennie Quint, of Oakland, a writer of the age of Daisy Ashford when she won fame, has penned this tale of adventure. It will be presented serially in the Almanac, and readers are warned that to lose a single chapter is to rob one's self of a part of the shock which is to come at the end.

I. With a little laugh of sheer light-heartedness on her lips and a twinkle in her brown eyes, Elsie Malone bound on a grotesque mask and stuffed the last strand of her recalcitrant hair beneath her veil. The beautiful face was hidden from mouth to brow; and her curls, so long and luxuriant were ruthlessly imprisoned under a cap held in place by the tightly tied veil. "It's perfectly hideous, isn't it?" she demanded of her companion. John Henry laughed. (To be continued.)

The Late Reward.

(From Ukiah Press.) Folks, it may be hard to acknowledge, but Budd Smith was not appreciated as he should have been in life, and many unkindly said the city got only what was coming to it during the 15 years Budd Smith was mayor; but now that he is dead, you and you know Ukiah received more benefits—light water system, our electric light plant, our gas works, our municipal auto park, the city hall, the paved streets—than any city of its size in the United States.

Oakland and Alameda county are out after a new record. Announcement has been made by the California League of Women Voters each candidate may have their rostrum and ten minutes in which to set forth his platform. There are 75 candidates and, accordingly, we are to have 750 minutes of rapid fire, non-stop, political speaking. Light water system, our electric light plant, our gas works, our municipal auto park, the city hall, the paved streets—than any city of its size in the United States.

To judge from this excerpt from the New York Sun the Liberty Bell is not to make the journey to Chicago: "Mayor Moore of Philadelphia has vetoed the resolution of the city council authorizing the sending of the Liberty Bell to Chicago as a feature in the Pageant of Progress. He explained that his action was taken both for technical and patriotic reasons; in general, he said, he wished to take the responsibility of refusing to allow one of the nation's greatest relics to be endangered by the journey, and he believed that as custodian of such relics the city of Philadelphia had a greater duty than that of stirring up patriotism."

To Quiet a Rooster. Berkeley's roosters, for all the fact they crow of the city's glories, are the center of one most enjoyable arguments ever held in that city. When the question is settled, if it ever is, a lot of folks are going to miss it.

In the meantime there are plans to drag the rooster into politics, to make candidates state their views on the question and to choke the ballot down the neck of the pesky critters. There is at hand today a suggestion from the familiar Mr. Lutz. "A rooster should not crow until he stretches his roost so high that his head will come in contact with some obstruction, a board, or the roof of the chicken house, when you don't want his opinion at dawn."

Mrs. Obenchain should remember that she who holds the center of the stage in the Los Angeles courts must step aside in good grace for the next woman who has slain a man.

Los Angeles county has a deputy sheriff named True Fogg, who was recently robbed of a wallet containing more than $2000. A true fog is a dense one.

When the state accident commission declares dividends it can only mean that a lot of folks who might have been hurt, weren't.

The center of instruction, says a professor, has shifted from the classroom to the poolroom. If this be so, someone should take the professor's cue and do something.

But for all that, we do not believe the center of education has shifted to the poolroom. One learns little there except unexpected points in geometry, the angles and lines to be drawn and considered before the fifteen ball may be dropped into the side pocket.

There is something of arithmetic, it is admitted, in the totalling of the score on the string of buttons but surely few of us learned to figure in that manner. The argument of the professor would appear to contemplate the removal of the student to the poolroom or the poolroom to the student. He may be right, but it is our opinion.

He has nothing on the ball.

NOTES and COMMENT

New York Herald on game laws: "Throughout the United States the enforcement of the game laws and the preservation of wild life have in recent years received the attention they deserve. There remains, however, something to be done in the same way on America's last frontier, Alaska. Aside from Cagayan on this continent, Alaska has game laws—plenty of them—and it has eleven game wardens to enforce them. Eleven game wardens for a territory that embraces 600,000 square miles! Eleven game wardens to keep up and down a coast line which, with its indentations, measures 30,000 miles, a distance greater than the circumference of the earth!"

To judge from this excerpt from the New York Sun the Liberty Bell is not to make the journey to Chicago: "Mayor Moore of Philadelphia has vetoed the resolution of the city council authorizing the sending of the Liberty Bell to Chicago as a feature in the Pageant of Progress. He explained that his action was taken both for technical and patriotic reasons; in general, he said, he wished to take the responsibility of refusing to allow one of the nation's greatest relics to be endangered by the journey, and he believed that as custodian of such relics the city of Philadelphia had a greater duty than that of stirring up patriotism."

New York World on the commonplace but important subject of bread: "The government's efforts to encourage diversity in baking, to make bread more appetizing to children, have a praiseworthy object, whatever they accomplish. It may not be necessary to recommend the greater use of brown bread to Boston children or of corn bread to Southerners. The ideal condition would be the adoption by all the country of the bake-even specialties of particular sections, so that white, corn and brown bread could blend in one mouth-watering dietary."

Boston Transcript on the President's perplexities: "Our Washington correspondent interviewed Senator Lodge after the latter's visit to the White House on Friday. It appears that the senior senator found the cabinet fairly itching for a fight, and the president much embarrassed by weak-kneed governors in various parts of the Union. The governor of Texas, in particular, has been giving the administration trouble, presumably because there is a Democratic primary in that state on July 22. Even some of the mayors have not measured up to the administration's standard of firmness and courage."

The Deseret News states the proposition: "Advices state that there are thirty-six women candidates for prominent federal offices in the United States. The women themselves are not quite agreed as to the policy to be pursued by women in quest of office. Shall they ask office as women, or as Democrats or Republicans? Shall they take their chances in the primaries and at the polls with men, on party tickets, or shall they run as independent candidates on the ground of their sex?"

The Oregonian thus: "Some well-wishing friend who should be classed with the 'Is it warm enough for you' fiend has sent us a copy of the Marysville (Cal.) Appeal of July 8, which tells of Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Constance and their children arriving from a trip to Portland and reporting no rain here for two months and a temperature of 108. Of course a little matter of 13 degrees should not make any difference between friends, but somebody is almost certain to deny that the thermometer here has gone above 95 this year."

SPIRIT OF STATE PRESS

Hop dealers will be interested in a communication received by one of the big railroads, indicating that if any hops will be shipped to England this year, unless the English yards should become damaged by vermin, or bad weather conditions should partially destroy the hops. The report has it that the English board of control, which regulates imports of products, has stated that no hops will be allowed to enter England during 1922.—Ukiah Press.

A San Francisco newspaper prints a large map of the San Joaquin valley on which it has the Hetchy Hetchy just back of Oakland and Tulare lake near Hollister. Visalla and Tulare are way up in the mountains off the main line and Hanford, the largest town in the valley, between Hanford and Fresno, is lost in the shuffle entirely.—Hanford Sentinel.

Prohibition didn't make the crooks now figuring in booze rings in Chicago and other wet centers. They were potential crooks long before the nation went dry, and they will remain crooks to the end.—Red Bluff News.

At this time of year the importance of the canning industry is fully illustrated. Modern processes of canning make it possible to utilize the surplus of practical every farm crop and during the twelve months of the year distribute fruits and vegetables to the four corners of the earth.—Martinez Gazette.

The shipments of cantaloupes and watermelons from this district have commenced in real earnest. Fruit shipments are now counted by the car load and not 1. Individual lot shipments, as was the case earlier in the season.—Turlock Tribune.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

THE LOYAL FEW.

The many are a fickle lot, the plaudits of the crowd are not more lasting than the passing breeze which blows the clover bloom; Who seeks the favor of the throng, seeks that he cannot hold for long.

Mankind reserves enduring fame to grace the dead man's tomb. The throng is fickle in defeat, the thrill of victory is sweet, Who wins today is all the crowd has time or love to cheer; A few brief weeks and once again, a newer favorite shall reign, And he in turn shall be dismissed when younger kings appear.

Who seeks a lasting love and true, must seek for it among the few. The neighborhood wherein he dwells his friendship must provide, Though fame and victory are sweet, by sorry failure or defeat, The few who know and understand are never turned aside.

The few are true through thick and thin, to keep their love one need not win. Their faith stays constant to the end as when it first began, The many cheer and then forget, no suns arise and old ones set.

Fame's constant cry is all for skill, but friends admire the man. (Copyright, 1922, by Edgar A. Guest)

TODAY 20 YEARS AGO

Alfred V. La Motte, a former resident of Oakland, is now in charge of the fish hatchery of the California and Northwestern Railway at Ukiah.

A banquet was recently given at Germania hall to the members of the singing section which carried off first prize at the Pacific Turn-Bezzik at San Jose.

A. S. Olney has purchased the Rose Hotel at Pleasanton from D. E. Tillman.

The labor unions of Alameda county are making preparations for the reception to President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, on his visit here this week.

WINS ART PRIZE.

To Donna Schuster, a California artist, and well known in Boston, where she formerly had her studio, was given the prize for figure painting at the California Art club exhibition in the Los Angeles club of Fine Arts. A Western reviewer says of Miss Schuster's work: "She is particularly happy in depicting the dappled sunlight of gardens and arbors, such as is shown in her picture of 'The Little Mother,' a child rocking an armful of dolls under the roses, which is full of brilliancy and sympathy."—Boston Transcript.

APPEARANCES.

"Your constituents say you are over-confident with reference to the coming election." "That's the impression I desire to create," confided Senator Sorghum. "But you may rest assured that any personal nonchalance is an outward appearance to which my busy campaign managers will pay no attention whatsoever."—Washington Star.

About YOUR HEALTH

Do You Really Dress the Best Way For Health?

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D., Commissioner of Health, New York City.

A trained nurse writes to ask this question: "Could the human body resist the effects of extreme cold as our faces do if the body were exposed habitually just as the face is?"

On another occasion I told an old story about one of the governors-general of Canada. Afterwards no less than half a dozen persons wrote to say that the story was told originally about this person or that person. However, this is the story as I heard it:

"The governor-general arrived in Quebec while the ice carnival was in its glory. The majestic St. Lawrence was tightly frozen, the ice palace glittered in full swing, but the temperature was away below zero. The official, new to his post, and not yet acclimated, shivered in his furs. He observed with amazement the Indians, clothed only in their blankets.

"Are you not cold without warm clothing?" he asked.

"Yes, face cold," retorted one of the Indians.

"No, my face is not cold," said the governor-general. "My face is accustomed to exposure." "Ugh!" exclaimed the Indian, "me all face!"

There can be no doubt many of us dress too warmly. At least, we do not suit the weight of the dress to the season and to the occasion. It is common to rail at modern woman who goes about with gossamer clothing in winter, wearing her furs in summer. But she does accustom her body to the light weight winter garments, and thrives in spite of her thin costume. No doubt the whole human family could be educated to dress more simply and less heavily with advantage to health.

My correspondent is correct when she writes:

"Our clothes keep the skin from absorbing air and sunlight, and make it tender so that the cold air hurts worse than it would if we were constantly nude."

She continues:

"If it were possible to have this freedom we would feel like taking more exercise. We would stay in the open more, because we could stand the weather, and we would have much more freedom of motion. Our interests would turn toward making our bodies healthy and beautiful."

She believes, too, that morals would improve when we become educated to primeval simplicity.

Perhaps most of us would not follow this beautifully idealistic woman, but there is no doubt we have gone too far toward the other extreme.

We are growing more sensible, but there remains room for improvement. It is just as much a mistake to overdress as it is to suffer from exposure without effort to protect the body. Let us consider common sense in dress as in everything else making for good health.

HOW STATESMEN KEEP FIT.

Golf is not the only recreation of the summer statesmen. Just before the Wilson Administration came in, Architect Charles F. McKim, who had a fine bathhouse in their marble palace across from the capitol. It was equipped with showers and a professional masseur at $1500 a year. The playmate Democratic Congress closed the place, for fear the senators might bathe often than their constituents and thus lose votes, but the Republicans have opened it up again and added a small swimming pool. The masseur is back also, but the senators pay for his services out of their own pockets, at the rate of about $10 a month.

Norris of Nebraska probably is the most enthusiastic swimming senator, although complaining that the marble tank is so small he cannot do himself justice. Some years ago Mr. Norris suffered with stroke and is a little hesitant about patronizing the public bathing beach, although he fought through an appropriation of $50,000 for its improvement, so he gets his fun out of the swimming pool. How many murders on the floor senatorial resort to this unique haven of rest has prevented may never be tabulated.—Boston Transcript.

EDWARD WARE BARRETT.

American Journalism, and not only that of the South, suffered an appreciable loss in the death, this week, of Edward Ware Barrett, owner and editor of The Birmingham (Ala.) Age-Herald. That is not because he had acquired, twenty-five years ago, a paper that was struggling precariously for continued existence. He raised it to a firmly established position of influence and prosperity, but because he did this without any deviation from the principles and ideals of honesty and public service that alone justify journalistic success and make it worth attaining.—New York Times.

'MISSING' MAN RETURNS, HALTS MYSTERY PROBE

George M. Dierks, an Oakland building contractor, reported missing and thought to have been killed, spoiled a perfectly good mystery story today by turning up alive and well at the last moment.

Report of his supposed disappearance was made public early today through a telegram sent to Chief of Police J. N. Black of San Jose by Mrs. Nellie Coakley, "Dierks' fiancée."

Mrs. Coakley, who is ill at the Hotel Crellin in Mrs. Nellie Coakley, Oakland, stated in a telegram that her intended husband had suddenly disappeared. He had gone to San Jose on business and had telephoned to her from that city that he would be back in Oakland Tuesday.

But Dierks did not return Tuesday, nor on the days following, so Mrs. Coakley, fearing that some accident had befallen her fiancé, broadcasted the news of his disappearance throughout this section of the state and enlisted police aid in the search.

Mrs. Coakley feared for Dierks' safety because he had a considerable amount of money on his person. Through an error in transmission the name received by the San Jose police was "Dierks." The business transaction, which took Dierks to San Jose involved a sheriff's sale, and Dierks was in the company of the sheriff taking over the deal while the sheriff was officially looking for him as a missing bridegroom-to-be.

Wednesday night Dierks telephoned Mrs. Coakley that he would be in Oakland the following day. Shortly after sending the message, however, the consummation of the business deal was unexpectedly delayed and Dierks was forced to remain in San Jose a few days longer.

He forgot about his phone message to Mrs. Coakley.

Mrs. Coakley, who had been making frantic efforts to locate her fiancé, was asked for a description of him today. While she and her husband were giving the desired information to the interviewer at the Hotel Crellin the missing man walked in. There was a flood of happy tears, and the story was spoiled.

BANKERS SEE OAKLAND AS CITY GUESTS

Delegates From Portland
Conclave Taken On Tour of Eastbay; Mayor Davie
Heads Greeters' Body

"Welcome, A. I. B. I."
This was the cryptic shout of welcome that went up from a host of Oaklanders gathered at Sixteenth street station early today in greeting to the delegates of the American Institute of Banking here to see Oakland and experience a typical Eastbay welcome.

The visitors represent financial interests all over the country and are en route to their respective homes from the Carter national conference just concluded at Portland, Ore., where H. T. Talman of Richmond, Va., was selected to head the institute of banking for the coming year.

The greeters, who were headed by Mayor John L. Davie and representatives from the various Oakland banks and financial institutions, gave a rousing welcome to the newcomers and entertained them lavishly throughout the day. Some of the reception committee members were William T. Ward, president of the local chapter and a member of Shingle, Brown & Co., J. S. Killam of the Central National bank, and J. E. Smith of the same bank.

WELCOME SIGNS
The first thing that caught the eyes of the delegates as they poured out of the station was a long line of gaily decorated automobiles bearing the signs "Welcome, A. I. B. I." and donated by public-spirited Oaklanders for a motor trip throughout the city, a trip that will take in all of the points of scenic, financial and industrial interest.

That the visitors were agreeably surprised by the greeting received from Oakland was evidenced in the various remarks with which they met the reception committee, and its carefully planned display in honor of the American Institute of Banking.

"This is some city," was the consensus of expressed opinion. "We did not expect to see a community of this size with such a noticeable spirit of cheer and co-operation. We certainly are glad to be here."

NO CONFUSION
There was no confusion on the arrival of the delegates despite the fact that there were more than 500 on the first two sections of the special train carrying the assemblage from the northern city.

Immediately the train arrived at the station the visitors were registered and assigned to automobiles which carried them along the route marked out by the official city machine carrying Mayor Davie and Chief of Police James T. Drew.

Within fifteen minutes after the train arrived at the station the visitors were on their way to learn at first hand the advantages and opportunities of the Eastbay district, which they are familiar with on paper, but which most of them have never actually seen before.

In addition to the representatives from the local banks who constituted the official greeting committee, there were representatives of all lines of endeavor, including real estate men, merchants, luncheon clubs and others interested in the civic advancement.

AUTOS DONATED
Machines for the motor caravan were donated by the automobile association, the real estate board, the California vic clubs, the Rotary, Lions and Kiwanis clubs and numerous private citizens, who responded quickly to the call for motor cars issued by the committee.

SEE SKYLINE
The delegates arriving on the first two sections of the special trains were taken first over the Skyline boulevard and concluded the morning tour of the industrial section of the community with a luncheon at the Hotel Claremont.

Due to the fact that the third section of the train containing the far eastern delegation headed by Talman, the new president, was delayed at Bonella, these delegates were taken directly to the hotel for luncheon and missed the tour through the city.

The necessity for the change in the entertainment program was caused by the railroad delay, and the need for making connections for the trip to San Francisco which started at 1:15 this afternoon.

FREE FROM WATCHMAN
Two burglars, who were prying the lock off a lunch wagon early this morning, were frightened away when they saw Frank Storrs, night watchman for the Santa Fe Railroad Company. The wagon stands at the corner of First and Oak streets. The watchman saw the men running but fired a shot into the air, but they kept on going.

If you see it in The TRIBUNE tell them so.

Children Bitten By Dog During Brother's Rescue

A sister and two brothers ran to the rescue of a smaller brother last night when he was attacked by a dog, and in the effort to rescue him sustained bites for which they were treated at the Oakland Receiving Hospital. The dog was the property of J. P. McTavish, 1160 Fifth street.

Silvia Paparelli, 7, and her three brothers, Corrado, age 14; Johnnie, 4, and Angelo, 11, were playing in the street when the dog, a valuable Airleide, got loose. The children ran for their home at 1181 Fifth street.

Johnnie could not run as fast as the older youngsters and was overtaken by the dog, which had become excited by the chase. He was bitten in the corner of the left eye. Silvia and the two older brothers returned to the rescue. In an attempt to beat off the dog all of them were bitten.

McTavish finally pulled the dog off and took all four youngsters to the Receiving Hospital. None of them sustained serious injuries.

BAIL REFUSED WILKENS IN MURDER CASE

Accused Held After Hearing; Arthur Castor's Confession Corroborated in Many Details by Brother

SAN FRANCISCO, July 22.—Assassins hired by Henry Wilkens impersonated hold-up men and killed his wife, Mrs. Anna Wilkens, on May 30 and Wilkens must answer to the superior court on a charge of murder. This was the position taken yesterday by Police Judge Sylvia Lazarus after the case for the prosecution had been presented.

The defense was not permitted to put on witnesses and Frank Murphy, Wilkens' attorney, is charging a "frame-up."

The decision to hold Wilkens to answer to the higher court came as a surprise to the defense attorney who had intended to put Wilkens on the stand as well as to present certain evidence tending to show that the Castor brothers had conspired against his client.

HELD ON CASTOR'S STORY

Wilkens was held to answer mainly on evidence presented by Robert Castor, brother of Walter and Arthur Castor, the alleged assassins who killed Mrs. Wilkens as she was returning from a holiday with her husband and children.

Robert Castor's testimony corroborated that offered by his brother, Arthur, regarding the plans to do away with Wilkens' wife, and, in addition, recounted meetings of Wilkens with the Castors after the murder in which Wilkens is said to have paid for the machine in which Arthur and Walter Castor fled the city.

According to Robert Castor, Wilkens had a conference with Walter Castor at the automobile park in Pelton on May 28, two days before the alleged holdup and murder, and that when Walter concluded his talk with Wilkens he displayed a "roll of bills."

AUTO TRIP RELATED

"I had arranged to take my wife and mother to Santa Cruz," Robert Castor testified, "and Walter asked me if I would take him along, as he wanted to go to Pelton. He explained to me that he wanted to see a man there to get money for payment on his Buick car. On the way down he told me what a wonderful yellow Premier car this friend of his had."

"When we reached the auto camp, Walter got down at the car and asked the gatekeeper how to find this man. He then came back, jumped into our car and we drove into the main street. I saw the yellow premier, and coming toward our car was a man with a bucket in his hand. That man was the same man as I subsequently met and knew to be Henry Wilkens, the defendant, sitting here in court."

CONFERRED WITH WILKENS

"Wilkens and Walter walked to a point somewhere behind our car and talked while the rest of us ate lunch. Then Walter came back to our car, and as we started to drive back home he showed me a roll of bills and gave me to understand that he had just gotten them from Wilkens."

Robert Castor then went on to relate the circumstances surrounding a trip with his two brothers, Arthur and Walter, to the Wilkens house on Vallejo street on June 2, after the murder of Mrs. Wilkens, and of the sale of Robert's Ford car to Walter. Wilkens guaranteed payment of a balance of $200 to Robert.

Again he told of his brothers' decision to "make a get-away" after they had been interrogated and released by the police following Wilkens' failure to identify them as the men who held him up and his statement that he had not seen them before. Finally he told of the pre-arranged meeting with Wilkens, when he was given the payment of $200 on the car in which his two brothers had made the "get-away."

Fortune Teller Sees Cash; Now Cops See Future

A GYPSY fortune-teller, who claims to be able to give one the correct dope on the future is wanted by the police for taking $10 from a client.

For the small sum of fifty cents Mrs. M. Dominguez, 836 Forty-fifth street, decided to learn what the future held in store for her. For a short time the future looked bright, but when Mrs. Dominguez discovered that the fortune-teller had stolen $10 everything darkened.

She told the police that she took the fifty cents which she gave to the Gypsy from a towel which also contained forty dollars in currency. The money, she says, was stolen by the fortune-teller when she asked Mrs. Dominguez to get her a drink of water, which she did. The theft was discovered after the woman departed.

JUDGE HOLDS WILKENS

Immediately Robert Castor concluded his testimony Judge Lazarus, who has been sitting as a committing magistrate in the case for the past week, said that there was a superabundance of evidence to show, not alone the commission of a crime, but to establish probable cause for holding Wilkens as the instigator of that crime.

Murphy, attorney for Wilkens, sought vainly to have the actual holding of Wilkens to answer postponed until the defense could put witnesses on the stand. He said that he did not hope for a change of decision, but in order that their testimony might be recorded in the event they will not be available for the trial.

Judge Lazarus refused on the ground that sufficient testimony had been introduced to warrant trial by the higher court and suggested that depositions be taken of those witnesses who might not be able to appear at the trial.

LAWYER AND JUDGE CLASH

Throughout the hearing there were frequent verbal passages at arms between the presiding judge and the attorney for the defense. Murphy was excoriated for his cross-examination tactics.

"You have exceeded the stage of contempt," said Judge Lazarus at one time. "You and I can never understand one another for we are not on the same plane."

"I am defending a man charged with murder," shouted Murphy, "and I have a right to use whatever means I can to save him."

"If that is your idea of defense," returned Judge Lazarus, "you have succeeded only in strengthening the case against the defendant."

MYSTERY ELEMENT

Another element of mystery has been added to the case by the disappearance of Mrs. Annie Castor, known as Annie Downs, wife of Robert Castor. She figured largely in the testimony offered by her husband against Wilkens, but did not testify. Her husband said that she has been missing since last Thursday. It was reported at the Hall of Justice several days ago that she had refused to be a witness for the district attorney in the case against Wilkens.

When Judge Lazarus pronounced his decision yesterday Wilkens understood and left the room handcuffed to a deputy sheriff in silence. He is now in the county jail pending trial. Judge Lazarus having refused to set bail in the case.

LOCAL MAN KIDNAPED AND ROBBED

Bandits Force Real Estate Agent to Enter Car and Drive to Lonely Spot on Tunnel Road; $45 Taken

John W. Wheaton, an agent for the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, was robbed last night by two highwaymen who seized him in the street a short distance from his home and made him accompany them in their automobile to a lonely spot on the Tunnel road. Wheaton resides at 923 Sixtieth street. The men stopped Wheaton near Sixtieth street and Stanford avenue. One of the men, who was armed with a revolver, jumped out of the automobile and covered Wheaton.

"Don't say a word, just jump into the automobile," said the bandit.

When Wheaton got into the machine he was told by the bandit who sat next to him in the rear seat that he would not be harmed if he kept quiet. The other bandit drove the car and did not take any part in the conversation.

They traveled on the Tunnel road until they were within a short distance from the tunnel. The bandit with the revolver then asked Wheaton for his money. He gave him his wallet which contained $45. The bandit told him that he would have to get out and walk back to Oakland.

About 2 o'clock this morning Wheaton, still walking, was picked up by a Berkeley policeman, who took him to the northern police station in Oakland, where he made the report of the holdup to Policeman C. J. Sullivan. The holdup men did not wear masks.

The Way Bess Dean Met Every Kindly Overture.

"I'm sorry we've nothing with which to bathe and anoint these poor feet," Lillian said tenderly, above the dislike that I suspected she felt for Bess Dean. "But there's nothing I can do further except wrap them loosely in this gauze. That's right, Madge," as I proffered her two large towels which I had cut from the roll always carried for an emergency in the pocket of the car. "Now some pins. Just lift that foot a trifle. Now the other. There!" Swiftly, skillfully, she smoothed the bunched and swollen feet in loose wrappings of gauze, cradling them for a moment in her hands as she gave her final directions.

"Madge, please, that motor blanket, folded and laid on this footstool. Now, Miss Dean, your feet on which you won't need, the day is so warm—just put it over her feet, lightly. There, Miss Dean, as comfortable as you can possibly be until we reach Mrs. Cosgrove's."

"Thanks," Bess Dean murmured shortly. "But I could have done as I wish until I reached here."

Lillian made no reply to this ungracious speech, nor did I. But I felt a little saving of my conscience, as one does when a person one has injured is boorish about reparation offered. And I had caught a quickly yelled but angry glance from the girl's eyes which told me that she held me, not her own folly, responsible for her plight.

WHAT LILLIAN SUGGESTED.

There was no more conversation in the tourney save the merest commonplace during the journey home. Robert Savarin and Dicky kept up a running conversation, and I was sure at one point the grateful was giving a description of the vast "portraits of souls" which the saffron blouse artist had exhibited in the art gallery, for Dicky laughed heartily and I caught fragments of phrases which betrayed the subject of his comment.

And then, at last, we turned into the familiar drive of the Cosgrove place, and Lillian spoke softly, with her own rare thoughtfulness, to Bess Dean.

"You won't be able to step on those feet now," she said. "Don't you think you'd prefer to have Mr. Cosgrove carry you to your room instead of—she gestured toward Dicky and Robert Savarin."

I think the girl already had planned the humiliating journey to the house which she must make, and was determined that if possible Dicky should not witness it.

"Pa Cosgrove is the only man big and strong enough to carry a woman up a flight of stairs."

HOW IT WAS ARRANGED.

Her tone subtly relegated Dicky and Robert Savarin to the outer limbo of physical weakness.

"And please get everybody out of the way first," she added imperiously, with a side glance at me, included me in the prohibited list. There was a touch of malice in that glance which irritated me, and I am afraid it was a crude sort of revenge my temper spurred me to take.

"Oh, Dicky," I said faintly. "Don't dare turn your head when you get out, but walk straight down the path to our cabin. And if you see Mr. Cosgrove, send him here to carry Bess Dean. When I hear that, Robert you are also requested to make yourself scarce."

"Ours not to reason why," Dicky retorted, getting out of the car, with Robert Savarin following. Then the two walked swiftly down the path to the cabins with no backward glance. At the mention of his father, Ted Cosgrove had tumbled from the dining board and into the house. I guessed that the older Cosgrove would be in evidence very shortly, so I alighted from the car myself.

"If you don't need me," I said to Lillian, "I'll go and look up the children."

"Don't excite yourself on that score, Madge," Bess Dean contrived to assume her natural air of good-natured confidence. "I know, I think that her finger-nails were trembling nervously for contact with my eyes. I don't need anyone and your husband is waiting for your explanation."

A sudden pang of conscience seized me, I whirled and looked her levelly in the eyes.

"Look here, Bess," I said straightforwardly. "Dicky will have an explanation from me. There was only a set. And I think you know me well enough to believe that I mean what I say."

"Oh, yes, everybody knows you have the one and only sin-pure, Puritan conscience," her laughter had tiny edge. "Ah, here's Pa Cosgrove."

Jovial Mr. Cosgrove, his face full of concern, came to the side of the car with many eager eyes of anxious expectancy. "I caught a glimpse of Bess Dean being lifted in his giant arms and borne into the house, where Mrs. Cosgrove, with alarmed aspect, awaited him and his burden."

Lillian followed them in, and I—knowing that all possible attention would be given the girl—walked slowly down the pathway to my own cabin.

Geraldine's SHOULDER

Listen, World!

M. T. I. of Vancouver, Wash., has asked me what I think of "vamps and what should be done to them." She says that she believes a wife should use a horse-whip—so here's where I make myself unpopular with M. T. I.

I DO NOT BELIEVE IN VAMPS.

I believe in selfish women who would like to grab anything in sight. These women are quite apt to be married to an unmarriageable man, and they're quite apt to be parading upon their legally wedded husbands as upon some other woman's husband. Parading, under any condition, is an abominable affair and parasites are an abomination.

And I believe in weak men who are obsessed by the Petticoat Complex and who have to make a pet of the chicken feed whenever they see a pretty little pullet. Such men are disgusting idiots, and my ideas of Hades would be to have one of 'em as a steady. I believe that a man could walk him away from me with my full permission and a bonus.

But I go NOT believe in the disorganization of homes by specialists in love thievery. And I DO believe that a very weak man is one of the very worst things that ever happened to modern thought. For it has provided countless wives with an alibi when what they really need was a mighty good house cleaning.

ALL TRULY "WOMENLY WOMEN" BELIEVE IN THE DEEPEST DITCHES OF THEIR HEARTS. THAT MEN ARE NINNIERS. They think that men may do well enough when it comes to money making but that they are babes in arms when it comes to judging characters of understanding motives. That's why the average wife unhesitatingly puts the whole blame on the Vamp's shoulders—as if the man were not the one who grabbed—which someone had grabbed—and looks at you with scorn if you insinuate that the man may have had a good deal to say about it.

Another reason why the Wife likes to blame it on the Vamp is because she has the whole of Society on her side. The Vamp is an outlaw. And the wife is hallowed. Now that's all very well. Anything that makes for the sanctity of the home is to be revered. But the cloak of the law covers many a crime. There's many a wife who is as selfish and shameless as truly a Vamp and the man she married, as the worst Vamp could possibly be, yet who, merely because she has complied with certain forms, has the sanction of Society.

Do you call that sort of thing good for women?

I don't.

Do you call it good for marriage?

I say it's the very thing that is undermining our modern homes. Every home that is wrecked is wrecked from within, not from without. It's wrecked by selfishness or stupidity of one of the partners, or both of them. Sometimes it's the man, sometimes it's the woman. But always it starts in the home first. The "vamp" is only the scavenger.

The Burning of Troy

CHAPTER 100

IT was a sad day for Troy when the wooden horse was drawn within the city walls. The people thought victory had been gained, so they feasted heavily. Night arrived and sleep overcame them all. Then a strange thing happened. Men began to come out of the hollow body of the horse. They were Greek soldiers who had been hidden inside ever since the animal of wood was built.

This is an attempt to illustrate the burning of Troy. People are rushing for their lives. The wooden horse can be seen inside the gate.

Running to the city gates they opened them wide and in their comrades, who had only pretended to give up the attack. Troy was set afire. The people, in terror, fled from their homes, but many of them were burned to death before they could get out of reach of the blaze.

The Greeks regained control of Helen, the weak but beautiful wife of King Menelaus. The king took her back to Greece and she once more became the queen of Sparta.

The handsome Paris had been slain shortly before Troy was burned.

Odysseus, the shrewd leader who had done so much to help the Greeks while investigating this case that I learned something of the psychology of the sucker.

"Of course, I figured I might lose," a man would say. But at the time it was worth $20 or $100. "Think how rich I will be if I win. I can't make less than $10,000 or $15,000."

Because the concern was so obviously "off color" the salesmen made many of their deals with ignorant factory workmen. Most people would take only $10 or $15 worth, figuring that they wouldn't miss a little like that, and dreaming of the billion and plate that would be theirs when the Spanish treasure ships were raised.

The operators of the Diving Bell business fled before the clamor of publicity in Portland, but went promptly to Los Angeles, where again they were warned to vacate by the post-office department agents.

Forming worthless stock games are not obviously so crooked. In recent years hundreds of people living in various parts of the United States have been victimized by the "motion picture company" swindle. The establishment of motion picture companies has become a sort of craze, due largely to the big profits which they are alleged to make.

Nearly every town and city of any size has been approached by such promoters, who declare that said place is "over the limit" in Hollywood. They get the people all worked up over the fine qualities of the old home town and they sell stock readily. One concern duped a "public stock" promoter in a small town and produced two reels of photodramas for $2500 each and sell them to the distributors for $6000. The fact that they produced no pictures at all made the profitable operation impossible.

Ignorant people were swindled recently by a band that went through the country selling stock in the League of Nations. For instance, I worked in Akron, Ohio, heard of the tire industry, a bogus concern recently sold stock in a big factory which was non-existent. The stock buyers could have discovered this by making a short trip to the site. Another crook planned to use Ford's name in the tractor building game, hiring a man by the name of Ford and getting his consent to its use. Forming leagues and associations with high-sounding names and selling memberships in them is a favorite scheme with the New York automobile buyers. This league offered to sell tires and accessories at the lowest prices, but they were honest only with a few "preferred" customers, whom they used as witnesses in court, and swindled all the others.

Monday, "The Confidence Man."

Shopkeeper—What did Mr. McMurray say when you asked for the money? Errand Boy—He said he would give me a jolly good hiding if I showed my face there again. Shopkeeper—Well, go back and tell him that he can't frighten me with his threats of violence.

Winifred Black Says

A STRANGE FAMILY PROBLEM.

This man is in trouble—serious trouble. No, he hasn't robbed a bank, or got fire to a church, or run away with another man's wife. He hasn't done anything wrong at all—not that I know of.

And he isn't poor and he isn't old and he isn't ill, and he isn't friendless, and he isn't shelterless. He's got everything that a man can want, and he's in trouble just the same.

And it's all about women.

Each thinks the other is a selfish, inconsiderate, cold-hearted monster, and the man doesn't know what to think. Read what the man has to say about it, and see what you think yourself.

"Dear Winifred Black:

"For many years I have read your articles with interest, and note particularly your insight into human nature. I take the liberty of imposing upon you for advice on a matter that has caused our family a great deal of worry for the past few months:

My mother, 74 years old, is compelled to take a street car to go and come from church. During the ball season it is almost impossible to get on the car, to say nothing of securing a seat.

For this reason father purchased a little automobile, in order that he might take her back and forth with more comfort. He has since died. Mother made me a present of the machine, and I have been doing the same for her that father did.

"My wife and I call for her at 9:30 each Sunday morning and take her to church, and then we call again for her at 12:30 and drive her home. Thus, you see, it is impossible for us to take the auto and go for an all-day outing. My wife complains that mother is selfish and inconsiderate of our pleasure. If it had not been for her we would not have had the auto at all. As it is, we get the use of it after 1 o'clock each Sunday.

I love to give my mother this little pleasure, and I have the same feeling for my wife and want to do everything for the pleasure of both. Can you help me? S. O. S."

Now, then, what would you take to be in that man's shoes, or even to have the tips of your toes in his slippers?

POOR CREATURE!

Poor creature, I wouldn't change places with him, if he gave me a large and enthusiastic check to do it.

I guess he wishes he'd never heard of a touring car.

If I were in his place I'd rather hang on to a strap in the street car for the rest of my days than

CHAPTER 36.

Worthless Stock Games.

It was in the office of Postoffice Inspector Harry Durand in Portland that I first saw the circular of the "Diving Bell Syndicate." It was a beautifully printed prospectus which told how the syndicate would salvage the treasures of the lost Spanish Armada, how they would raise "gold ships" with the diving bell and how stock bought at 20 cents a share would soon be worth thousands of dollars. The concern had a great hollow steel ball in its office, fitted out with doors, windows, rubber tubing and signal words, and the salesmen demonstrated how it could be lowered alongside a treasure ship in the deepest water. The ball was to be equipped with an electric drilling machine which would enable it to drill holes in the ship's sides, to which pontoons could be attached. When these pontoons were filled with air, the sunken ship would rise.

Even if the "diving bell" had been an engineering possibility, the method of exploitation branded the whole thing as a crooked stock selling game. Salesmen were scouring the city, "cleaning up" hundreds of dollars peddling the stock to factory workers, shop men and even office help. One of the stunts was for a salesman to secure a room at the house of a woman who had a little money, get her to dig up the "old stock" containing years of savings.

The handsome Paris had been slain shortly before Troy was burned.

Odysseus, the shrewd leader who had done so much to help the Greeks while investigating this case that I learned something of the psychology of the sucker.

"Of course, I figured I might lose," a man would say. But at the time it was worth $20 or $100. "Think how rich I will be if I win. I can't make less than $10,000 or $15,000."

HOME LIFE VITAL
IN LIFE OF YOUTH,
URGE OFFICIALSProper Training Chief Factor
in Preventing Crime, Advise Speakers.

It is the home, and not the policeman or criminologist, that is the deciding factor in the question of whether a youth will turn out to be a good citizen or a criminal, and also in the question of how to lessen crime in general.

This was the keynote of two addresses made simultaneously in Oakland yesterday—one by Oliver C. Laizure, chaplain and director of education at San Quentin, who talked before the High Twelve Club, and the other by District Attorney Ezra W. Decoto, who spoke at the weekly luncheon of the Optimists Club.

Among several important elements in the prevention of crime, including education, recreation, police probity, and religious training, Decoto declared that his nineteen years experience with criminals had proved that the greatest factor in making good citizens was the normal home.

"A normal home is not necessarily a rich one or poor one," he said, "but one in which a good father and a good mother are working together in harmony."

HEARD MANY TROUBLES.

Decoto said that in the three years he served as Alameda county's first probation officer, from 1903 to 1906, the twelve he acted as prosecuting attorney at the city hall, and in the four years he has served as district attorney, he had listened to the troubles of 200,000 persons—both criminals and their victims. He said he based his conclusions largely upon the evidence gathered by means of these first-hand observations.

Although crime in general has decreased in the past five years, there has been a marked increase in the number of crimes of violence, Decoto told his hearers. The effect of the war and other conditions upon the mind and the increased use of narcotics, are the two principal causes of this, he said.

The extent to which the number of "dope" addicts has increased throughout the country, Decoto declared, is shown by the fact that in 1916 only 2 per cent of the new convicts received at San Quentin were narcotic users, and in 1921 the number had increased to a half that as many, or 9 per cent of all those received.

DOPE SPREAD TOLD.

"It has spread to a startling extent among young people," he said. "Many of them, of both sexes, take a snuff of cocaine before going on parties, in order to have more pep. It is often said that in the day of the party, the party is over, and the order from a 'dope' user during one dance, and deliver it to him during the next."

"The inevitable end for a 'dope' addict is insanity, and the most awful agony known to man, when he is at last deprived of his daily requirement of 'dope,'" Decoto said.

Decoto declared that the most important factors in lessening crime were clean police departments, which the big "crooks" would carefully avoid; properly supervised recreation for children, in order that they would not use their excess vitality in wholesome play; a certain amount of religious training, in order that the child might acquire a love of virtuous living; and a hatred of the obvious wrong, because it strengthens the mind, he declared, for the task of swimming against life's currents, "and the economic current is becoming swifter every day," he added.

HOME CHIEF FACTOR.

Greatest of all, however, are normal home training and surroundings, he asserted.

Obtaining in obedience to parental authority is of prime importance," he said, "since it gives the child respect for the only law that he knows—the instructions of his parents. In gaining respect for the law, he is gaining his future respect for law and order. If he lacks respect for the commands of his parents, he will most likely lack respect for law and order later on. The two are inseparable, and the more important in the training of the child is the mother, the district attorney declared.

"The greatest single influence in any community is the making of good citizens," he said, "are the good, wholesome, wise, understanding mothers."

Chaplain Laizure of San Quentin told the members of the High Twelve Club that of the 250 boys between the ages of 15 and 25 who entered the penitentiary last year, not one was well educated. Most of them had left school in the earlier grades, he said.

Neighborhood speakers who considered the twelve most important factors in the proper training of growing boys. They were:

1. Every father should be a comrade to his son.
2. Every boy should be made to feel that he belongs to a boys' club under proper leadership.
3. Every boy should play on some organized athletic team.
4. There should be a baseball field and playground within a mile of the home of every city boy.
5. He should have adequate opportunities for swimming.
6. He should attend some church school.
7. He should be kept in school until at least the eighth grade.
8. He should have the opportunity, if willing to do his part, to attend high school and college.
9. He should have guidance in his choice of a vocation.
10. Every employer should be held responsible for the health and happiness of the boys in his employ.
11. He should be taught thrift.
12. "Big Brothers" should be provided to give helping hands to boys who have got a wrong start.

From Prison Convict to College Lecturer

The Story of a "Four Time Loser," Who is Lecturing on Criminology at the University of California

By GEO. C. HENDERSON

CHAPTER IV.

The Vanishing Burglar.

The Vanishing Burglar puzzled the Los Angeles police for many months.

This mysterious person entered a house in some mysterious fashion, ransacked the second story and vanished just as strangely.

Homes were robbed while whole families were downstairs, and every entrance and exit blocked. The burglar entered as if from the air, very effectively looted all the bedrooms on the second floor of jewelry and money and then silently fled by the same route he had come.

Even when the Vanishing Burglar "prowled" the home of the millionaire political boss whom we will call Andrews, the police could find nothing in answer to the angry and frantic appeals of this great underworld power.

And the Andrews case was the most mystifying of all. Two very savage dogs that brooked the presence of strangers had been loose in the house at the time. The servants had been in the kitchen all evening so that no one could have entered that way, while the family had been so distributed over the lower floor that it would have been impossible for a person to jimmy a window or unlock a door, and sneak in.

LADDER NEEDED.

To enter the second story window would have required a ladder. The police satisfied themselves that no ladder was used. The robbery had occurred between the hours of 7 and 8 o'clock in the evening.

The solution came unexpectedly. A maid of some forty odd years, living on Adams street, was surprised one night while making her toilet to see a head pop into her window, materializing from thin air. Following this head came a slight wiry body and a pair of long legs.

The elderly spinster rocked the place with her screams and fell on the floor in a faint.

The apparition disappeared and seemed to drop out of the window, disregarding the fifteen foot fall to the ground.

The police first examined the ground below for the print of a ladder, but with no success. There were a few footprints but no indication of a ladder having been used. The absence of corpses or pipes up which the burglar could have easily escaped caused the police to suspect that the frightened lady had been "seeing things."

"It would have been impossible for a man to get into that window without a ladder or an aeroplane, and the day after the incident, we knew that neither was used."

TELLS OF MYSTERY.

The mystery of the Vanishing Burglar was not solved until the day when the "four time loser," burglar-dip-robber and college lecturer, told the story. His confession came at the close of a lecture on criminology made to a class at the University of California.

To do second story work effectively, Gotch had a silk ladder made in a Japanese art store. To this ladder, at attached grappling hooks. They had secured a very strong collapsible fishing pole. The ladder was so light that he could wrap the silk strands around the hooks and put them in his coat pockets. The fishing pole he used as a cane.

He always operated on the blind side of the house, where the windows on the second story would be left open because of the obvious impossibility of anyone making an entrance. With his fishing pole he pushed the silk ladder up to the window ledge in such a fashion that the grappling hooks caught on the ledge. Then he walked up this silk ladder and in through an open window. When he drew this ladder in after him, no one passing on the outside could tell that a man had scaled the wall. An ordinary ladder would have been spotted at once.

SCHEME ORIGINAL.

The safety of this scheme lay in its originality. The police now were wise to the fact that the burglar was entering the house on the "blind side," or that next to another building, and Gotch decided to abandon the idea for a time.

He devised a plan by which anyone seeing him enter a deserted house would at once think that he had been admitted by the owner.

To work this trick he wore an overcoat through the pocket of which he could thrust his hand. He would open the door while standing apparently with his hands in his pockets. Sometimes he had to use skeleton keys or screws. Then he pushed open the door with his foot, keeping his hands in the overcoat pocket all the time. As the door opened he tipped his hat as if to someone inside.

Neighbors sitting on their porch on the opposite side of the street would naturally think that someone was being admitted, even if they had at first supposed that the house was deserted. Gotch, alias the K. C. Kid, robbed the place and then made his exit through the front door with equal cleverness.

ness. He walked out of the place, leaving the door open, lifted his hat as if to someone inside, and then started away. The door closed slowly behind him. To all appearances someone had closed it. In reality the Kid himself was pulling the door shut with a string as he left.

The Kid worked this trick often with people sitting on their porches on both sides of the house and across the street. If he had openly tried to jimmy the door, he would have been suspected at once. This method made neighbors think that he was a welcome guest in the home he was about to rob.

TIPS FROM CARS.

We obtained his tips on these places from automobiles parked in front of theaters. He would take the car number, find out the address, and telephone number of a home, phone the home and if no answer, go to the place and rob it in the manner described.

Because of the large amount of loot which he gathered from time to time and because this stuff had to be disposed of through fences, the K. C. Kid became acquainted with a large variety of receivers of stolen goods.

He found that certain second-hand stores would buy anything that they could get cheaply enough, but that they would not pay for good stuff. These stores knew that the stuff was stolen but had no understanding with the crook. They bought the stuff and let us do with it as we pleased. Then there was the low type of second hand dealer who knew that goods were stolen, who advanced money to crooks, who told them the kind of stuff he needed and who bargained with mott buzzers and small burglars over cheap jewelry.

Besides these stores, there were the pawnshops or diamond palaces which dealt in large amounts, never trifling with junk but buying diamonds, jewelry and platinum only. The Kid found that he could get advances as high as $1000 from such a place. The pawnshop broker knew that the crook would not double cross him, since he could "put his finger on" the criminal and have him jailed unless he paid back the money.

He found also that there were special fences who buy only distinctive stuff such as furs, necklaces, diamond lavallieres and valuable hats that had to be remounted and reset. These fences frequently had "correspondents" in other large cities to whom they sent stuff to be sold.

Besides these he had encountered the antique dealers who bought stolen bronzes, ivories, tapestries and Persian rugs and shipped them away to be sold to curio collectors, and the negotiable paper fence who purchased bonds and other securities. Not infrequently a sportsman, man-about-town or a policeman would buy a fine watch or a diamond which he knew had been stolen.

The entertainment from The TRIBUNE broadcasting station this evening will be orchestra music furnished by Pex's Blue Balcony Orchestra of Berkeley, under the direction of Bruce Wilson. The TRIBUNE will broadcast between 8:15 and 9 o'clock on the time of KZLY, the Atlantic-Pacific Radio Supply Company of San Francisco.

Pex's Blue Balcony Orchestra has furnished dance music on many occasions in the bay district and has played at various functions. It has a reputation of being one of the best dance orchestras in the bay district, and the radio enthusiasts equipped with loud speakers will be given an opportunity tonight to dance to this music. Due to an engagement in Berkeley, the orchestra will be in the bay district until 8:45 only. The balance of the time, 15 minutes, will be filled with dance music from phonograph records.

The entertainment broadcast from KZLY today between 3:30 and 4:30, which was also on the time of KZLY, was by the Elder Trio, composed of Paul Elder, Jr., cellist; Pauline Elder, pianist, and Scott Elder, violinist. The youthful trio rendered a dozen selections and showed remarkable achievement. They are but youngsters, although they play with the technique of advanced artists.

The program last night from KZLY, between 8:15 and 9 o'clock, was another treat to the radio fans. It consisted of four selections by Hal Webber's Juvenile Orchestra from Portland, Ore., now playing at the Panthea Theater, and solos by W. A. Nottebrock and Edward F. Jones, accompanied by Mrs. Dorothy Cooley.

Webber's juvenile orchestra, although handicapped by the quick change from the theater to the broadcasting station, necessitating the retuning of their instruments to double quick time, produced music which might easily have been mistaken as coming from an adult aggregation of musicians instead of from juveniles ranging in ages from 12 to 15 years.

Nottebrock and Jones, in their duet, "Two Merry Sailors," rocked the walls of the station, and, in the average professional drummer turn green with envy.

Both Nottebrock and Jones will again give the radio audience a real treat at some future date with a more elaborate program.

The addition of a grid condenser to a receiving circuit employing a vacuum tube as a detector results in a marked increase in sensitivity. In addition to the grid condenser, grid leak or high resistance is also employed and when this combination is properly connected in the circuit the value of the high frequency signal voltage, impressed upon the grid, need not be as great to produce the same strength of audible sound in the receiving telephones as would be necessary if the grid leak and grid condenser were omitted.

Characteristic Curves of Vacuum Tube.

As shown in the accompanying diagram, the grid condenser (C-1) is connected between the grid (G) and the tuned circuit formed by the secondary winding (L) and the secondary tuning condenser (C-2). The grid leak (L), which is of a resistance of large value is connected in shunt to the grid resistance of the grid leak should be approximately one million ohms, but in all events should have such a value as to allow the electrons on the grid to be rapidly dissipated if the signal voltage ceases.

The action of the grid condenser may be understood by reference to the characteristic curves of the vacuum tube, as shown above, in which the vertical axis has been used for values of plate current and grid current, while the horizontal axis shows positive and negative values of grid potential.

When there is no signal impressed upon the circuit, the potential of the grid may be assumed to have the value (A) this value being slightly positive with respect to the reticulate end of the filament. If a signal having equal positive and negative amplitudes of voltage is now impressed upon the grid, the potential of the grid will change by equal amounts on either side of the point (E).

It is evident from an examination of the grid-current, grid-potential curve that when the change of grid potential is in a positive direction, the increase in grid current is much greater than is the case when there is an equal change of grid potential in the negative direction. As a result there is an accumulation of electrons upon the grid which cause the average value of the grid potential to decrease and as the changes in value of the plate current follow the changes in the grid potential, it is evident that the plate current will be reduced by an amount dependent upon the decrease of the grid potential. When the signal ceases the accumulation of electrons leaks rapidly from the grid through the "grid leak" and the potential of the grid returns to its normal value.

The audible signal in the receiving telephone is dependent upon the change in the average value of the plate current, which in turn depends upon the variation of the average value of the grid potential.

It has previously been explained that when the vacuum tube is used as a detector without a grid condenser, rectification may be secured either on the upper or lower bend of the grid-potential, plate-current curve when the alternating voltage of the incoming signal is impressed upon the grid. For example, if the grid potential has a value (A) on the upper bend of the curve, rectification is produced by an increase in average value of the plate current. If on the other hand, the grid potential is adjusted to a value (B) on the lower bend of the curve rectification is obtained by a decrease in the average value of the plate current. At the point (C) along the straight line portion of the curve the desirable amplification adjustment for the signal is obtained, with little or no rectification.

With the addition of a grid condenser and grid leak, however, it is important to note that regardless of what portion of the grid-potential, plate-current curve is used, the incoming signal always produces a decrease in the average value of the plate current which results in an "ar" like signal in the receiving telephones.
